JANUARY WHITE SALE

Offering Extraordinary Values in Undermuslins, Laces, Embroideries, Persian Lawns, Batistes. Etc.

Extraordinary because the sale prices are lower than we would have to pay to duplicate the goods in the present market. The stocks of Undermuslins, really the foundation of the White Sale, give greatest evidence of this less than market pricing. You not only have an opportunity to buy faultlessly-made garments for what the materials alone are worth, but in many instances less than you would pay for the Muslin, Nainsook or Cambric alone; and the most ardent champion of home sewing cannot produce better fashioned garments than we have for this Record White Sale.

THE LATEST.

The jury in the Powers case was unable to agree on a verdict and was discharged by Judge Morris, who overruled a motion for bail and fixed July 6 as the date for the next trial. The jury stood ten for acquittal and two for conviction. Powers' friends and attorneys have taken steps toward requesting a pardon from Gov. Willson, and a long telegram was sent the Chief Executive, informing him how the jury stood. It is said petitions will be circulated throughout Kentucky and the United States in the hope that thousands of persons will sign, asking Gov. Willson to issue a pardon. Ten of the jurors signed an affidavit stating that from the evidence they do not believe Jim Howard fired the shot that killed Gov. Goebel.

At a conference between Gov. Willson, R. K. Smith and H. A. Walker, representing the American Tobacco Company, held in the Governor's office, Mr. Smith agreed to arrange a meeting between the Executive Committee of the Burley Tobacco Society and President James B. Duke, of the American Tobacco Company. State Senator J. W. Newman has prepared a resolution which will be introduced on the first day of the coming session of the General Assembly for the appointment of a committee of seven members to investigate the tobacco conditions thoroughly and report the causes for the recent disorders.

Jean Francois Edmond Guyot-Dessaigne, the French Minister of Justice, who dropped dead in the Senate on Tuesday last, was refused the last rites of the church when buried. A priest, upon the request of the widow, had prepared to hold a solemn high mass in the church when he received notification that M. Guyot-Dessaigne had suffered excommunication on account of having embraced Free Masonry.

The will of Baroness Adolphe de Rothschild, who died in Paris November 18, donates over $1,600,000 to charity. Four hundred thousand dollars are given specifically for the relief of Israelites and the remainder of the fortune of the Baroness is allotted in sums ranging from $10,000 to $50,000 to general charitable institutions.

It is reported in Hopkinsville that word has been sent to the tobacco growers who are members of the Association and Society of Equity to meet in Hopkinsville Monday. It is estimated that from 2,500 to 25,000 will answer the call, including many from Tennessee. No statement is obtainable as to the object of the call.

George A. Pettibone and Charles H. Moyer, president of the Western Federation of Miners, charged with complicity in the murder of former Gov. Frank Steunenberg, of Idaho, were set free yesterday. Pettibone was acquitted by the jury and the charge against Moyer was dismissed on motion of the State.

Maximilian Harden, who was yesterday found guilty in Berlin of libeling Count Kuno von Moltke, and sentenced to four months' imprisonment, has appealed to the Supreme Court of the Empire on the ground that testimony was illegally excluded from the hearing, and on several other technicalities.

Circuit Judge J. W. Sandage, of Russellville, says if it is necessary he will call a special term of the Logan Circuit Court to investigate the night riders' raid on Russellville, but he hardly thinks this is necessary, as the regular term of court convenes the first week in February.

Beginning on Monday the Baldwin Locomotive Works, of Philadelphia, will run on an eight-hour instead of a ten-hour basis. The reduction in time will affect 15,000 men and boys and is equivalent to the suspension of more than 3,000 persons.

Gov. Willson said in a warm letter addressed to a citizen of Christian county that he had no intention of going to Hopkinsville to confer with the leaders of the Dark Tobacco Association and strongly resents the suggestion that he do so.

Garrett Hedden, a desperado who, six years ago, murdered his brother in Polk county, Tennessee, was yesterday shot and killed by Sheriff Biggs, of that county. Hedden's eighteen-year-old son was shot by members of the Sheriff's posse.

Muncie, Ind., has been placed under martial law owing to the street car strike. Twelve infantry companies and one battery of the State Guard are now on duty there.

The Canadian Pacific steamer Mount Royal, from Antwerp for St. John's N. B., is still missing. The officers of the line have not abandoned hope.

President Roosevelt accepted an invitation to attend the dinner to be given by the Gridiron Club in Washington January 25.

The temporary receivership of the Knickerbocker Trust Company has been extended two weeks.

Rumors of the illness of the Pope have proved to be unfounded.

TOBACCO GROWERS CALLED TO MEET IN HOPKINSVILLE

Word Reported Passed to Association and Equity Members.

Monday the Date Fixed, and Thousands Are Expected To Attend.

Many Theories As To the Object of the Gathering.

Show of Strength and Settlement of the Trouble Suggested.

DELEGATES FROM TENNESSEE.

Hopkinsville, Ky., Jan. 4.—[Special.]—If any reliance may be placed in the rumors that have been flying thick and fast throughout this region, Hopkinsville will be the scene Monday of a great gathering of people. Everybody has heard that an immense crowd is coming. Association and nonassociation people alike, are familiar with the reports, but no one can be found who will give definite information of the proposed assemblage, where they are coming from, who they are, or what they are going to do. It is generally understood, however, that Association and Equity people and their supporters will compose most of the crowd.

It is related that by telephone, word of mouth, and horseback riders, reports have been spread in many localities for a gathering of the farmers here and a prominent official of the association said to-day that while he had no personal knowledge of the matter, he supposed the reports were true and understood that in addition to Western Kentucky several Tennessee counties would send big delegations.

2,500 To 25,000 People Coming.

The size of the coming crowd is variously estimated at from 2,500 to 25,000 people. There are some reports to the effect that the object of the meeting is to show the strength of the association. Others say that plans are to be discussed looking to an adjustment of the tobacco troubles and the suppression of the "night riding."

Particular interest attaches to the meeting of the Christian county Executive Committee of the Planters' Protective Association on that day. Officials of the association have individually strongly condemned the raid at Hopkinsville. Heretofore, the committee has placed itself squarely on record as being opposed to lawlessness of any character and has gone so far as to offer rewards for the apprehension and conviction of guilty persons. Monday's meeting will be the first session of the committee since the Hopkinsville raid.

Governor's Stand Appreciated.

A telegram was formulated to-day and dispatched to Gov. Willson by citizens of Hopkinsville saying that they rejoiced in his firm stand for the enforcement of law and heartily indorsed his attitude toward "night riding" and violations of the statutes. The signers pledged the Governor their support and promised to co-operate with him in any way he desired.

The telegram was signed by ministers of the Gospel, business and professional men and persons of various classes. The proceedings of the grand jury are being kept a secret from the public. In addition to witnesses whose names were furnished by Fire Marshal Mott Ayres, the jury to-day had summoned members of the Sheriff's posse that chased the night riders on the morning of the raid on this city.

CRIPPLE AND FURNITURE SAVED BY NIGHT RIDERS

HOME WAS BURNED WITH RUSSELLVILLE TOBACCO FACTORY.

Russellville, Ky., Jan. 4.—[Special.]—Pathetic as well as humorous incidents occurred Thursday night when Russellville was raided. Will Jarrett lives in a small house adjoining the Luckett & Wake tobacco factory. When the factory was fired and the shooting began his wife stepped out the door to ascertain the cause. She was promptly ordered by masked men to go back in. She replied that her husband was a cripple and could not get out. Several masked men then went in, helped the cripple dress and carried him to the furniture to a place of safety before their cottage was consumed. Jarrett was a hoghead maker for the tobacco factory.

Sheriff Tom Rhea, on hearing the firing, pushed his head out of the window to learn what the matter was and was immediately met with an order from armed masked men below to take his head in and keep it there, which was promptly obeyed.

The night policeman attempting to ring the fire alarm, after striking the bell three times, heard somebody yell "stop that racket." Looking around, he gazed down the muzzle of two Winchester held by masked men. He was ordered to hold up his hands and make no further attempt at an alarm.

The night riders were evidently thoroughly drilled and accomplishing their purpose they marched in military formation to where they had placed pickets, picking them up as they went. After firing the American snuff company's factory they marched through the center of town in two lines extending across the street, with eight closers in the rear walking backward with ready guns.

Miss McCallum, night operator for the Home Telephone Company, requested the guards who prevented her from manipulating the board to allow her to answer her mother, who was frantically ringing for her. They allowed her to state to her mother that she was in no danger, but would allow no further conversation. After a successful conversation, she said she would call a special term of court. He said he had thought it would be necessary, as the regular term will begin the first week in February.

Sheriff Tom Rhea went to Frankfort to-day.

KENTUCKY SOCIETY OF EQUITY Meets Next Thursday at Henderson.

Henderson, Ky., Jan. 4.—[Special.]—Next Thursday, January 9, the Kentucky State Union of the American Society of Equity meets in the city of Henderson. From 150 to 200 delegates from all over Kentucky are expected to be present. Assurances are to the effect that the Burley counties will be largely represented. The success of the stemming of the association embracing the five counties growing tobacco, thirty million pounds of that type of tobacco grown as strips, namely Henderson, Hopkinsville, Union, Crittenden, with headquarters in this city, commands the attention of co-operating farmers all over the State, and they are coming here next week to hold a love feast. Some of the best speakers in the State will be here, and the Hon. A. O. Stanley is down for an address.

BY VOTE OF 7 TO 5.

Grand Jury Said To Have Refused To Indict Crenshaw.

Hopkinsville, Ky., Jan. 4.—[Special.]—It is reported to-night that by a vote of seven to five the grand jury declined to indict Herman Richman and Crenshaw, the young Trigg county farmer, who was arrested Wednesday on the charge of being a member of the mob of night riders which raided Hopkinsville. The witnesses against Crenshaw were taken before the grand jury to tell their stories and the report that the indictment was dismissed is apparently well founded.

BIG PURCHASE OF TOBACCO.

American Buys 3,000,000 From Green River Association.

Owensboro, Ky., Jan. 4.—[Special.]—The American Tobacco Company yesterday closed a deal with the Green River District Association, a branch of the American Society of Equity, for 3,000,000 pounds of tobacco. This is the third purchase made by the American from the Green River Association, the other two purchases being of 2,000,000 and 600,000 pounds, respectively, making a total of 5,600,000 pounds recently purchased from this organization.

KNEELING IN CHURCH, GIRL PICKS POCKETS

YOUTHFUL THIEF, DRESSED IN DEEP MOURNING, WAS UN-SUSPECTED BY VICTIMS.

Cincinnati, O., Jan. 4.—[Special.]—One of the most remarkable cases of pocket picking that has come to the attention of the Cincinnati police for years came to light to-day. Dressed in deep mourning and pretending to be a devout worshiper, Lizzie Meyers, sixteen years old, fell into a trap that had been laid for her in the St. Xavier's Catholic church on Symmes street to-day, and which proved her to be a thief.

The girl broke down and confessed that for three weeks she had been in the black and solemn disguise to ply the vocation of a pickpocket and that during this period she and two other girls have stolen several hundred dollars from worshippers in the famous old church.

GRANDSON OF MR. O. O. STEALEY DEAD.

Sammie Park Victim of Scarlet Fever and Bereaved Mother Ill With Diphtheria.

Washington, Jan. 4.—[Special.]—The holiday season was not a cheerful one for Mr. O. O. Stealey and family. A few days before Christmas their little three-year-old grandson, Sammie, the youngest boy of Mr. and Mrs. Sam T. Park, of Danville, Ill., was taken ill with scarlet fever. A week later his mother was stricken with diphtheria. The little boy died last night, but Mrs. Park is reported better. Mrs. Stealey has her children in Danville.

ONE VIEW OF THE TUBERCULOSIS EXHIBIT.

HOW THE ANTI-TUBERCULOSIS ASSOCIATION FIGHTS THE WHITE PLAGUE.

Eighty-eight boxes, crates and packages, containing the material for the Tuberculosis Exhibit, are anxiously awaited by the local committee in charge of the American Tuberculosis Association. These packages made up a carload of freight, shipped from Richmond and Louisville, Agent M. L. Akers, of the C. and O., is on the trail and expects to send up the material in time to make all things ready for the opening next week.

"This carload of freight," said Chairman C. L. Adler, of the local committee, "will enable the Kentucky Anti-Tuberculosis Association to crown its educational campaign with the biggest single effort yet."

The dispensary and sanatorium are both educational agencies and much of the value of both comes from the training they give to the patients and their families in the fundamental preventive measures which everyone ought to adopt, whether they have the disease or not.

"Thousands of dollars have been expended on these two plans for teaching people how to save themselves and others. Now we are going to spend nearly another thousand during the next three weeks. The two institutions reach some hundreds of people and run all the year around. This exhibition will be open only two weeks, but there will be something doing the whole time."

At the time, and we expect thousands to learn the real nature of tuberculosis, and will so feel that they need never patronize the dispensary or sanatorium. The purpose of the exhibit is purely educational. No cures will be sold or remedies advertised. We don't intend to charge any admission and will be unable to make any money from having the show here.

"By models of buildings and tents, beautiful photographs and novel charts, the exhibit will demonstrate the relation of occupation and living conditions to disease, emphasizing the fearful ravages of consumption among all classes. The removable causes for the high death rate among the negroes will be made clear, and it will be shown that the unfortunates, even those who may not even have seen the original center of infection. Brief stereoscopic tales, public conferences and many special addresses will be given throughout the exhibition season."

Association Members Interested.
 Enthusiasm characterized the meeting of the Tuberculosis Exhibit Committee held yesterday in the Commercial Club room. Reports of plans being worked out by the various subcommittees revealed to the General Committee that they have the best kind of a popular proposition on hand. The City Health Department, as reported by Dr. T. H. Baker, will have a man on duty all through the exhibition to explain the work of the association and to answer questions. The exhibit is directed by the National Association, which has the honor of being the first to take this step. The directors will make final arrangements for an exhibit showing the local work of the association. This exhibit is directed by the National Association to be shown with the main exhibition in the leading cities of the South. The annual meeting of the association will also be planned for and will probably be held on the night before the public opening of the exhibition.

Appeal To Comstock.
 In view of the importance which is now being attached to the testimony of Anthony Comstock, the National Association has decided to appeal to him in regard to his appeal to the Vice Society's head, Dr. Britton D. Evans, inventor of the "ornament" branch of insanity, gave the words to the jury at the first trial.

The entire group of commercial organizations will co-operate. Chairman A. T. Humphreys, of this committee, announced that the members of the Commercial Club will be individually notified and urged to co-operate as well as to attend personally.

Women's Clubs, churches, lodges, schools and employees are all uniting in this common fight against needless disease.

To-night the board of directors of the Kentucky Anti-Tuberculosis Association will hold its last meeting before the opening of the American Tuberculosis Exhibit. The directors will make final arrangements for an exhibit showing the local work of the association. This exhibit is directed by the National Association to be shown with the main exhibition in the leading cities of the South. The annual meeting of the association will also be planned for and will probably be held on the night before the public opening of the exhibition.

Pimples Stopped In 5 Days
 Every Possible Skin Eruption Cured In Marvelously Quick Time by the New Calcium Treatment.

Send For Free Sample Package To-day.
 Boils have been cured in three days, and some of the worst cases of skin diseases have been cured in a week by the wonderful action of Stuart's Calcium Treatment. These wonderful cures are made possible by the most thorough, quick and effective blood purifier known, calcium sulphide.

Most treatments for the blood and for skin eruptions are miserably slow in their results, and, besides, many of them are poisonous. Stuart's Calcium Treatment contains no poison or drug of any kind; they are absolutely harmless, and yet do work which cannot be explained by any other system. The powerful blood purifier and skin cleanser ever discovered, and they never damage the system.

No matter what you suffer from, pimples, blackheads, acne, red rash, spots, blotches, rash, lacer, or other skin eruptions, you can get rid of them long before other treatments can even begin to show results.

Don't go around with a humiliating, disgusting mass of pimples and blackheads on your face. A face covered over with these disgusting things makes people turn away from you. It breeds failure in your life work. Stop it. Read what an Iowa man said when he woke up one morning and found he had a new face:

"By George, I never saw anything like it. There I've been for three years, trying to get rid of pimples and blackheads, and guess I used everything under the sun. I used your Calcium Treatment for just seven days. This morning every blemish is gone and I can't find a blackhead. I could write you a volume of thanks, I am so grateful to you."

You can depend upon this treatment being a real skin cure. Just send us your name and address in full to-day and we will send you a trial package of Stuart's Calcium Treatment free of cost. You can get rid of the sample and be convinced that what we say is true, you will go to your nearest drugstore and get a box of Stuart's Calcium Treatment. They are in tablet form, and no trouble whatever to take. You go about your work as usual, and there you are—cured and happy.

Send us your name and address to-day and we will at once send you by mail a sample package free. Address: F. A. Stuart Co., 175 Stuart Bldg., Marshall, Mich.

YOUNG WIFE

Will Again Be the Chief Witness

IN THE CASE OF HARRY K. THAW.

TO REPEAT STORY OF RUIN BY STANFORD WHITE.

APPEARANCE OF COMSTOCK.

New York, Jan. 4.—The final conference of the attorneys engaged in the defense of Harry Thaw were held today without the presence of Mrs. William Thaw, the mother, who was expected to go over the case in its entirety with the lawyers. Mrs. Thaw is still too ill to come on from her home in Pittsburgh and will not be in court when Thaw is called to his place on Monday morning at 10:30 o'clock. She is expected to arrive in New York within the next week or ten days, however, and will be ready to again take the stand if the attorneys for the defense deem her testimony necessary to their case. Joseph and Edward Thaw, the brothers, and Mrs. George Lauder Carnegie, a sister, are expected Monday.

The trial will be held in the same branch of the Supreme Court as before—the room of the more or less criticised mural decorations depicting "The Fate" in one panel, "Justice" in another, and "Protection of Equality and Liberty" in a third. The counsel rail in the room has been extended and the prisoner and his attorneys will sit with the jury in the room of the almost notorious scenes in the courthouse corridors which marked the opening of the first hearing.

Young Judge Will Preside.

Justice Victor Dowling, who will preside at the trial, is one of the youngest members of the State Supreme bench, but has already attained a wide reputation as a jurist. He has expressed an intention to hold the opposing attorneys steadily to their tasks and to expedite the trial as much as possible. It is intimated that if it appears from the first day's proceedings that the work of jury selection will be difficult night sessions will be held. The defendant and his attorneys, as well as the District Attorney, are in accord with Justice Dowling and will do everything in their power to hasten the proceedings. It is the hope of all to make the second trial a model of brevity as compared to the first one.

The demand for admissions to the trial is expected to be heavy, but it is promised the lines are to be strictly drawn. The ban upon the attendance of women will go far toward preventing a repetition of the almost riotous scenes in the courthouse corridors which marked the opening of the first hearing.

Wife Chief Witness Again.

Since the announcement that Anthony Comstock, head of the Society for the Suppression of Vice, would be called as one of the principal new witnesses for the defense, the rumor has once more gained circulation that Mrs. Evelyn Nesbit Thaw will not take the stand; the theory being that Comstock's testimony will indicate what Thaw had heard regarding Stanford White, and thus relieve the wife from repeating her remarkable story. It was again authoritatively stated today, however, that young Mrs. Thaw will be relied upon as the chief witness.

Appeal To Comstock.

In view of the importance which is now being attached to the testimony of Anthony Comstock, the National Association has decided to appeal to him in regard to his appeal to the Vice Society's head, Dr. Britton D. Evans, inventor of the "ornament" branch of insanity, gave the words to the jury at the first trial.

DEAD LETTERS

In the Laws Governing National Banks

FORMER DEPUTY CONTROLLER OF CURRENCY

TESTIFIES THAT BANKS ARE FREQUENT VIOLATORS.

WITNESS FOR JOHN WALSH.

Chicago, Jan. 4.—That certain sections of the national banking laws are dead letters, so far as banking practice is concerned, and that these violations mean with only former criticism from the Controller of the Currency, was the testimony to-day of George M. Coffin, of New York, former Deputy Controller of the Currency, in the trial of John R. Walsh on charges of misapplying the funds of the defunct Chicago National Bank.

Mr. Coffin was for eleven years vice president of the Phoenix National Bank of New York, and until recently president of the Beaver National Bank of New York. Mr. Coffin said that he had been connected with the office of the Controller of the Currency from 1886 to 1898, and that he still held a complete knowledge of the laws governing the national banks.

Coffin was asked by Attorney John S. Miller, for the defense, if it was a prevailing practice of the banks to make accommodation and memoranda notes and loans in excess of the limit provided by the banking laws. Before the witness could answer an objection by the attorneys for the Government brought on a long argument, during which Judge Anderson declared that the question was neither material, competent nor relevant so far as the case was concerned.

IMPRESSIVE SERVICES
 MARKED FUNERAL OF DONALD MACPHERSON.

Ceremonies At Warren Memorial Presbyterian Church Conducted by the Rev. Dr. Peyton H. Hoge.

Short but impressive services marked the funeral yesterday afternoon of Donald MacPherson, one of Louisville's most prominent and most highly respected citizens. Many friends, both from the city and distant cities, were present to see the body conducted to the last resting place and to pay tribute to the memory of the deceased.

The funeral service was conducted at 2 o'clock at the Warren Memorial Presbyterian church by the Rev. Dr. Hoge, with the Rev. E. L. Warren assisting.

The church was well filled with mourners. Many of them had come from distant cities to pay the last signs of respect to the memory of the deceased. Many of them had come from distant cities to pay the last signs of respect to the memory of the deceased.

Favored By Aldrich of Finance Committee.

BANK ISSUE GUARANTEED BY BEST SECURITY.

WILL NOT TALK OF BILL HE HAS IN MIND.

WIRELESS TREATY HEARING.

Washington, Jan. 4.—Senator Aldrich, chairman of the Finance Committee on Finance, returned to this city and became immediately occupied in the gathering of facts to be utilized in the preparation of a financial bill which probably will be completed by the middle of the month. He says that he has not yet formulated a bill, and he pronounces as incorrect most of the statements that have been printed purporting to represent the character of the measure which he, together with other Republican Senators, will bring to the attention of the Finance Committee and the Senate. The committee on Finance will hold a meeting next Tuesday, but its proceedings will be devoted largely to general exchange of views as to the character of the measure to be introduced. The figures called for by the resolution adopted by the Senate before the holidays have not yet been received and the committee is indisposed to proceed without the facts which it is believed this resolution will develop.

While Mr. Aldrich refuses to make any statement concerning the character of the bill which he has in mind, his friends say that his leaning is toward the issuance of additional currency by the existing banks, to be guaranteed by the best possible security.

WIRELESS TELEGRAPH TREATY.

John W. Griggs Will Appear in Opposition to the Treaty.

Washington, Jan. 4.—A meeting of the Senate Committee on Foreign Relations has been called for Wednesday next to consider the treaty on wireless telegraphy which was recently transmitted to the Senate by the President. It has been arranged that John W. Griggs, former Attorney General of the United States and at present the attorney for Marconi, the inventor of one of the wireless systems, shall be heard in opposition to the treaty.

The article of the treaty which provides that wireless messages shall be exchanged between ships and coastal stations and between ships themselves, regardless of the particular system adopted by such ships and stations, is not regarded favorably by Marconi, as his attorney will set forth.

It is understood that the statement of Admiral H. N. Manney, a member of the United States delegation attending the Berlin wireless conference, regarding the disputed article, has been obtained by the committee.

BLOODY CHINESE WAR ENDED IN 'FRISCO

SIX COMPANIES INTERVENE TO PREVENT FURTHER CAR-NAGE.

San Francisco, Jan. 4.—The bloodiest of Tong wars that this country has seen, which originated seven years ago over a Chinese girl, and in which more than fifty persons have been killed and more than double that number wounded, was declared off at a meeting of the various Tong held yesterday at the rooms of the Commercial Union in this city.

The trouble started over the sale of Wan Len, a slave girl, to Lui-Ng, a member of the Ping Kung Tong, by Ah Wong, a member of the Hop Sing Tong. Lui-Ng paid $2,100 for Wan Len, but Ah Wong declared that this was not full payment. As Lui-Ng refused to pay more, war was declared between the Ping Kung Tong and the Hop Sing.

The first case of the Clay street riot resulted in seven being killed and ten wounded, and since that time the fighting has been continued. Later the Hop Sing in their desire to get back the money alleged to be due their Tong, held up a faint game at Los Angeles and in the fracas two members of the Ho On, a totally different and inoffensive Tong, were shot by the Hop Sing.

With the result that the fight became general and every Tong was implicated.

Seeing that the war was likely to spread too far, the presidents of the six companies called a meeting Thursday to settle it, and the upshot of it was that Lui-Ng was awarded the girl and the Hop Sing declared to be in the wrong. A jury of the See Yups seven years ago rendered a similar verdict.

RECOGNIZED VOICE OVER TELEPHONE

MISS MARJORIE CONLEY, OF LOUISVILLE, WEDS MAN WHOSE LIFE SHE SAVED.

New York, Jan. 4.—The marriage of Miss Marjorie Conley and Dr. Perry Wilson, just announced, was the result of another of the romances that have begun in the surf.

Two years ago, Miss Conley, who had come to New York from Louisville, Ky., to earn her own living, went to Atlantic City on her vacation. She was an expert swimmer, but one day, venturing outside the life lines, she became exhausted and but for the aid of a young man would probably have drowned.

The man was Dr. Perry Wilson, son of a wealthy railroad man of Lockhaven, Pa., and a graduate of Lehigh University. Miss Conley and Mr. Wilson became friendly, but when she returned to New York they lost sight of each other.

A few months ago when Wilson was in town he telephoned to the Hotel Astor and the voice of the telephone operator was familiar to him. He investigated and discovered that the voice belonged to Miss Conley. They were married on New Year's Day.

WILLING TO BE THE PROHIBITION NOMINEE.

Los Angeles, Jan. 4.—Friends of Frederick F. Wheeler, a capitalist of this city, have opened a correspondence campaign to secure for Mr. Wheeler the prohibition nomination for President at Columbus, O., next July.

Mr. Wheeler admits that he is a passive candidate for the honor and will be glad to lend his name to the cause if called upon to do so. He is a member of the Prohibition National Committee and has been several times candidate for Congress and other offices.

STATE VETERINARIAN'S VIEWS

The indications now are that the United States Government will declare a quarantine in the State of Kentucky against the disease in sheep known to the veterinary profession as foot rot. It is reported that the State Board of Health has declared to the Federal authorities its inability to handle the situation.

It appears that several of the counties have allowed this disease to become prevalent to an alarming extent and have made no effort to eradicate it with the result that Federal inspectors in cities outside the State have made complaint that sheep are being shipped infected with the disease.

The disease is not always fatal, veterinary physicians say, but causes a poor quality of animals to be raised. It prevails more in Bourbon county than in any of the counties of the State.

State Law Makes Trouble.

The State Board of Health has appointed Dr. J. W. Jamison to take charge of the situation, but the State law as it is now throws considerable difficulty in his way. It provides that the County Judge in each county must approve of any investigation in order that the payment for services may be secured, and in many cases the County Judge makes inquiry of the farmers with reference to the situation. The farmers are said to have concealed the fact that the disease prevailed, and as a result investigation in those communities was abandoned. The reasons given for concealing the fact that the disease existed are the expense of cleaning up and fear that a quarantine will be declared.

Dr. Eisenman's Statement.

Dr. Frank T. Eisenman, of Louisville, State Veterinarian, has the following to say concerning the situation:

"It does not seem possible in this collection of sheep that there should be State whose people are so blind and deaf to their own interests as the Kentuckians have been and are to the danger of the prevalence of the two worst enemies of the sheep industry, namely, foot rot and sheep scab."

"With diseases have been found to a very large extent in four of the counties. In Bourbon county alone Dr. J. W. Jamison by his most strenuous efforts has been able to isolate and treat over 2,000 sheep and disinfest their quarters and this represents only a small portion of the infection."

"The owners and dealers in this county instead of co-operating with him in many instances have denied the existence of the disease and when the State Board of Health has been able to isolate and treat over 2,000 sheep and disinfest their quarters and this represents only a small portion of the infection."

Fear of Federal Quarantine.

"The only accurate report that can be obtained is from the Bureau of Animal Industry at Washington, which inspects the various markets where the sheep are shipped. So numerous and persistent are the reports of Kentucky sheep being condemned that the gravest suspicion of the State Board of Health has been confirmed of the widespread infection throughout the State."

"The time has now come when the State Board of Health must take the cooperation of the people of the counties infected, and believes that their plan of action for the eradication of the disease will be readily endorsed, when the people understand that only by their united efforts can the State Board of Health prevent a Federal quarantine of the entire State, which means that not a sheep can come in or leave the State and that the quarantine will not be lifted until every vestige of the disease is eradicated, which may take from one to five years."

"It was only within the last few months that Federal quarantine was lifted from the counties of Clinton, Wayne and Pulaski, because of the existence of the disease. After having been in effect for five years. Had the county officials at the proper time given the State Board of Health proper co-operation the quarantine would never have been inaugurated, besides it would have saved a great deal of money to the counties and prevented unnecessary hardships to the cattle industry."

STATE FAIR BUILDINGS SOON TO BE COMMENCED

COMMITTEE WILL VISIT OTHER GROUNDS TO GET IDEAS.

CONSTRUCTION OF RACE TRACK TO WAIT A YEAR.

HOUSES ENOUGH NEXT FALL.

With all opposition to the purchase of the McDonald property as the permanent site for the State Fair removed, the Building Committee is making preparations to get building operations under way as soon as possible. Enough buildings will be in readiness by the opening of the fair this year to accommodate all the exhibits and stock. The only essential for a fair, which will be missing, as far as can be seen at the present time, will be a race track. This, the members of the Building Committee say, will have to be over for another year.

Within the next ten days the Building Committee will visit different cities where State Fairs are located to gain ideas for the style and probable cost of their buildings. One of the first cities visited will be Indianapolis, where the Indiana State Fair is located. The administration building in Indianapolis cost in the neighborhood of $100,000, and is excellently adapted to the purpose for which it was erected. The members of the Building Committee hope to be able to duplicate it for $50,000 for the Kentucky fair grounds.

The postponing of the construction of a race track for another year will also save the cost of an amphitheater. The machinery exhibits this year will have to be provided for themselves, but it is planned to have these manufacturers construct temporary buildings at their own expense as they have done at numerous other State Fairs. The first buildings erected will in all probability be grouped together near the entrance and connected with the main gate by a covered boardwalk. This arrangement of the buildings will save the erection of many hundreds of feet of light board fencing at a large cost.

It is said that the title can be secured within the next few days and the purchase will follow immediately. The buildings to be constructed before the opening of this year's fair in September, aside from the administration building, are the dairy building, the fine arts building and the cattle and horse barns. The members of the Building Committee are, Guthrie Wilson, Prof. M. A. Scovell, Lawrence Jones and C. P. Moorman.

OUR CROWNING BARGAIN EVENT

January Sale

Muslin Underwear

Now comes the most important sale of the year. Our past successes in this line so encouraged us that we planned to make this bigger, better and more far-reaching than ever before. Orders were placed in August, during the manufacturer's dull season, when he was anxious for business even without profit to himself, so he could keep his factory open and his forces intact. On this account we secured most flattering terms. Since then hundreds of tidy New England sewing-women have been at work on these goods. Every article was made under the most approved sanitary conditions, amid clean and healthy surroundings. We never offer sweat-shop goods under any circumstances. This charming lot of dainty Muslin, Cambric and Nainsook Undergarments is here ready for your inspection, all marked with one-half our usual profit. This, coupled with the concession obtained from the manufacturer, brings these goods to you at less than actual cost of materials alone. The sale starts at 8 o'clock to-morrow morning, and will continue from day to day until the entire consignment is sold. There will be no duplicates. When a number has been closed out, no more can be had, for we could not reorder and get the goods at the present prices. We confidently believe this will be the biggest sale in our history. Our entire South store is devoted to the display of this stock. A few articles picked at random are quoted below. They give a slight foretaste of what can be expected in the way of bargains.

THIS Dainty COVER.

Sowns.

Besides the few pictured in this advertisement, your special attention is directed to the following extraordinary lots:

75c Four styles of lace, embroidered tucks (trimmed Gowns), V neck, high neck or low neck; worth $1.00.

$1.00 Eight delightful styles of lace and embroidery trimmed Muslin, Cambric and Nainsook Gowns; worth $1.50.

$1.25 Twelve splendid styles of Ladies' handsome Gowns, including the new bishop style. Gorgeous variety of trimmings and effects; worth $1.75.

$1.50 A dozen or more styles of Night Gowns at this price; worth up to $2.50.

$2.00 Exactly ten different styles in the lot. Some are worth as much as $2.75.

$2.25 Eight pretty styles Ladies' Night Robes, variously trimmed, including the new English embroidery effects.

$2.50 Eight different styles of dainty Robes; worth as much as $3.50 in some instances. OTHER GOWNS UP TO $25.00.

Skirts.

The skirt illustrated here at 75c is a very select value. We mention below a few others that are equally as good if not better at the price.

55c Good Muslin Skirt, extra deep flounce with group of tucks and hemstitched hem; worth 75c.

$1.00 Two very handsome styles of skirts. One comes with embroidery and tucks, the other with lace edge and insertion and tucks. Really worth $1.50.

$1.25 Eight different styles of charming Skirts to go at this price for choice. They include lace, embroidery and plain hemstitched tuck effects; worth $1.75.

$1.50 Quite an assortment of different skirt designs are offered at this price for choice. New laces and embroidery trimmings; worth $2.00.

$2.00 More than ten different styles Muslin and Cambric Skirts in this assortment. Some qualities would easily bring $2.75.

$2.50 Six distinct models in this range, all trimmed with the new 1908 laces, insertions and embroidery. Worth as much as $3.50 in some cases.

$3.00 We have eight splendid styles at this price.

OTHER SKIRTS UP TO $50.00.

Odds and Ends.

Our custom during these sales is to take out of stock all single pieces, broken lines and odd garments, also all that are slightly mussed from handling or window show. We assort these in lots and put them on great tables apart from the regular sales.

Such goods are marked at ridiculously low prices. In fact, we are indifferent as to what they bring now, our sole idea being to rid ourselves of single pieces.

The early comers will find in this offering some of the rarest bargains ever featured by any reliable house. Naturally all qualities from the lowest price to the very finest are included in this range.

The prices go from 3c to $19.00.

French Underwear.

This fine hand-made wear, trimmed with genuine needlework embroidery, is most appealing to ladies of good taste and refinement. We import direct and save the commission man's profit. That brings this superb lingerie to you for less than you are often called on to pay for domestic goods.

Space in this announcement will not permit detailed quotations, but as an example we mention one lot consisting of fifteen styles of exquisite chemises embroidered in various designs and of superior materials. They range up to $1.75 in value, but at this time we give unrestricted choice of any.

AOKI'S BAGGAGE FAILS TO ARRIVE

JAPANESE AMBASSADOR REFUSES TO RECEIVE REPORTERS AT FRISCO.

San Francisco, Jan. 4.—Viscount Aoki, the retiring Japanese Ambassador to America, was the guest of honor to-day at a luncheon tendered him at 1 o'clock at the St. Francis Hotel by the trustees of the local Chamber of Commerce. Besides the Ambassador, there were present Consul General Chozo Kioke and Vice Consul Matsubara.

Viscount Aoki refused to see any newspapermen at the hotel to-day, excusing himself on the ground that his baggage had not arrived and his wardrobe was limited to his traveling clothes worn on the trip. The decline of his baggage to arrive on time caused the party considerable annoyance, and for a time threatened to disarrange the plans made for the entertainment of the Ambassador to-day.

This afternoon the Ambassador held a reception at the Japanese Consulate for Japanese residents of this city and the Bay cities. To-night Viscount Aoki and his wife will be entertained at a dinner party given in their honor at the Japanese Consulate by Consul General Kioke.

The Ambassador will sail for Japan on the steamer Manchuria Tuesday afternoon. He is closely guarded by United States secret service men.

SIX MORE BODIES FOUND IN DARR MINE.

Jacobs Creek, Pa., Jan. 4.—Six more bodies were found in the Darr mine to-day, making a total of 237 recovered to date. It believed there are about seventy-five more bodies in the mine.

The funeral services of B. R. Porter, formerly a deputy County Surveyor, and who succumbed to a complication of diseases at 5 o'clock yesterday morning at his residence, 214 Caldwell street, will be held at 2 o'clock this afternoon at the chapel of Cralle's undertaking establishment, Sixth and Chestnut streets. Mr. Porter had been ill for several months, and his death was expected.

Mr. Porter was sixty-eight years of age, and was born near Avoca, in Jefferson county. He was the son of the late Dr. James Porter, a prominent physician of his day. Besides his wife, who was formerly Miss Eliza Clure, of Brownboro, he is survived by three sons and two daughters. They are James T. and Claude C. Porter, of Louisville; Aubrey Porter, of Indianapolis; Mrs. Samuel Mobley and Miss May Porter. A brother, Thomas B. Porter, of Tulsa, Mo., also survives. Mr. Porter was the uncle of James P. Hawkins, a clerk at the post-office, and R. W. and C. Lee Hawkins, route agents for the Times. The burial will be in Cave Hill cemetery.

ONE KILLED. SEVEN OR EIGHT INJURED.

Evansville, Ind., Jan. 4.—One man was killed and seven or eight people were injured in a wreck on the Evansville and Mt. Vernon traction line to-day. Among the injured was Maj. G. V. Menzies, of Mt. Vernon. The wreck was caused by a collision between a passenger car and freight car near Ford's Station. John Niederburst, of

ORGANIZED LABOR

May Take Position In Tobacco Controversy.

STATE FEDERATION MEETS AT FRANKFORT TO-MORROW.

WANT FACTORY INSPECTORSHIP FOR KENTUCKY.

FAVOR OTHER LEGISLATION.

Although no authorized statement could be secured, it is believed that the State Federation of Labor, at the annual session which is to be convened at Frankfort to-morrow, will take a position against the tobacco districts. The delegates will take up and discuss the matter of what position will be taken, if any, in not closed, Herrick, Christen, of Louisville, the president, refusing to commit himself or the organization on the question. The discussion of the question and action taken will depend upon the views of organized labor in the districts affected. Some of the labor leaders say that it is not a question affecting the State Federation of Labor, but is a matter entirely with the American Society of Equity and the Tobacco Trust, and therefore any action taken would only be in the nature of an expression of sympathy for one or the other.

The annual session of the State Federation of Labor will be convened at the Armory Ball in Frankfort to-morrow morning at 11 o'clock, and the business which is to be given attention will consume several days' time. The session the first morning will be given over to opening addresses. Gov. Augustus E. Wilson has been invited to speak and the letter of acceptance reached here yesterday afternoon. The Governor will make the opening address. Mayor Hume, of Frankfort, has also been invited to speak, and both will be responded to by President Christen. When the opening addresses are concluded the Committee on Credentials will be appointed and recess taken for luncheon.

To Talk Proposed Legislation.

The convention will consider and reach an agreement on some revision of the State child labor law and a law creating a State department, the Bureau of Labor, thus separating the State Factory Inspector from the jurisdiction of the Commissioner of Agriculture. With reference to the latter proposed law Herman Christen, the President, says:

"The State Federation of Labor desires a man to discharge the duties of Factory Inspector who holds a trade union card. If this can be accomplished the conditions will improve. We do not believe that the Commissioner of Agriculture is competent to handle labor questions, and it is for this reason that we want a separate department. The introduction of a bill creating the Bureau of Labor is the end we are seeking. A better child labor law is desired, so that concerns heretofore not brought within its provisions will not be exempt hereafter."

The Federation will also plan for a more thorough organization of labor throughout the State. The idea is to inaugurate a department of organization and appoint a State organizer to take the field and effect organizations among the various trades and make them a part of both the State and National Federation of Labor.

RUDOLPH DAVIS MADE CORONER OF BOURBON.

Paris, Ky., Jan. 4.—[Special.]—Judge Dorton to-day appointed Rudolph Davis Coroner for Bourbon county, vice Dr. William Kenney, resigned.

The appointment is for the unexpired term, the election to fill the vacancy taking place at the coming November election. Mr. Davis is a staunch Democrat and never held office. Dr. Kenney resigned to accept the position of Health Officer, to which he was recently elected by the Board of Health.

OVERANXIETY OF NEGRO BOY'S MOTHER DIRECTS DETECTIVES TO HIS PLACE OF CONCEALMENT

Caperton Brown's Clothes Hung On Wall, Also, While He Hid In Wardrobe.

Because his three brothers were sleeping in a room where hung four suits of clothes, and incidentally because his mother, in her anxiety to shield him, hovered too shelteringly from justice and on another from justice, Caperton Brown, a sixteen-year-old negro, fell into the hands of Corp. Hogan and Patrolman Sparks, who had been sent to arrest him on a charge of housebreaking and of being a fugitive from justice.

The policeman, who had received word that Brown was wanted on a warrant from Owenboro for escaping from justice and on another from Todd county charging him with housebreaking, went to the negro's home, in the rear of 1106 West Broadway and asked to see him. His mother, Mary Brown, declared that Brown was not at home, and volunteered to let the policemen search her home to convince them. In the sleeping-room they found the boy's three brothers, all "tight asleep" in bed.

Unfortunately for Brown, however, the policemen also discovered that whereas there were only three heads on the pillows there were four suits of clothes hanging around the bed. This discovery presently led them to notice that the boy's mother was standing before an old wardrobe in the room with a too evident, if only maternal, desire to conceal it or what it contained. The police demanded that the wardrobe be opened. The three sleeping negroes immediately awoke, the door of the wardrobe opened and Brown, scantily clad and half sufficed, tumbled out.

The boy was presented in the Police Court yesterday and the case against him was continued until Monday, when an officer is expected from Todd county to take him back.

ROCK CRUSHERS

Recommended For Work-house By Grand Jury.

PRISONER COULD THEN GO TO WORK IN QUARRY.

CITY HOSPITAL CONDITION FOUND EXCELLENT.

JIM CROW LAW INDICTMENTS.

Upon final adjournment yesterday the December grand jury made a report to Special Judge Allen Kinney, in which the condition of affairs at the City Hospital was highly commended, though the construction of new buildings permitting the separation of patients suffering from contagious diseases is urged. The city is advised to equip the workhouse stone quarry with modern crushers in order that sufficient rock may be turned out with which property to pave the streets in the outlying districts. The condition of all the county institutions is commended, though it is suggested that the jail should be kept more cleanly and sanitary. A law prohibiting minors from selling to junk or second-hand dealers is proposed, while especial attention is called to the pressing need of a stenographer for the Commonwealth Attorney's office.

Indictments were returned by the grand jury against the Louisville and Interurban Railroad Company and the Louisville railway, in which both corporations are charged with unlawfully failing to provide notices for white and colored passengers on separate coaches; the Louisville and Interurban is indicted for the direct infraction, while the Louisville Railway Company is made a party because the Louisville and Interurban operates over its tracks, and, in fact, belongs to that corporation.

Text of Grand Jury Report.

The report of the grand jury in full is as follows:

To the Jefferson Circuit Court, Criminal Division: The grand jury for the month of December, 1907, whose term is about to expire by limitation, begs leave to submit the following report:

In obedience to the duty of the court, we have visited several of the public institutions.

First, we have made a visit to the City Hospital, which is in charge of Dr. J. J. Menefee. We found it managed in the most excellent manner. We found the sanitary conditions first class. The patients receive an abundance of wholesome food and the attendants and nurses seem to be attentive to their duties and we do not think that under existing conditions the institution could be managed any better, but the grand jury respectfully submit that the building is antiquated and patients cannot receive the treatment which they should receive owing to the lack of space and other necessary conveniences. We would recommend that the proper city authorities should secure a suitable location in this city for a new hospital, which should be erected thereon as soon as possible, so that the patients having various contagious diseases might be separated, which cannot now be done under the present conditions of the building.

Rock Crushers For Workhouse.

We next visited the City Workhouse, where we also found everything in satisfactory condition, but we believe that the institution should be managed more profitably to the city. We believe that it would be advisable to establish a plant which should be equipped with sufficient steam power, air compressors, air drills and rock crushers, and the prisoners who now work on the rock piles should be employed by quarrying rock and putting it through the crushers. In that manner, we believe a sufficient quantity of broken stones could be obtained to repair the worn-out macadamized streets by resurfacing same, rolling them down and filling them, thereby making splendid driveways throughout the outlying districts of the city.

Committees from the grand jury visited the county jail, the Central Asylum for the Insane, at Leitchfield, and the City House, and found all of these institutions to be in good condition, except that we would recommend that the county jail be kept in a more cleanly and sanitary condition.

We recommend that the coming General Assembly pass a bill prohibiting second-hand and junk dealers from purchasing articles in their line of business from minors. We believe that a heavy penalty should be placed on these dealers for purchasing articles from minors, and that by so doing many juvenile offenders would be prevented from petty pilfering and vicious stealing, as thereby the means of disposing of the ill-gotten gains would be to a large extent done away with.

Commonwealth Stenographer.

The grand jury also desire to call the attention of the Legislature to the fact that the Commonwealth's Attorney's office in the Third Judicial district of this State, comprising Jefferson county, is provided with no stenographer. We believe that there are many reasons why a stenographer is necessary in this office. Many cases originate for instance, out of an examining trial before a grand jury, and it would be of great use to the Commonwealth's Attorney in the preparation of his cases if he could take the sworn statements of all the Commonwealth's witnesses in such cases. Many indictments have to be drawn up by the Commonwealth's Attorney, and he is forced to seek some other person's stenographer in order that the work of the Commonwealth's Attorney may become very inconvenient, not only to the office, but to the public, because on many cases it is both expedient and necessary that the work should be attended to at once, and the Commonwealth's Attorney is bound to leave his office and go out and hunt a stenographer to draw up any kind of a paper that may become necessary in transacting the business of his office, and in many instances is incompetent and unable to do the work correctly or properly.

ORATORIO SOCIETY CHORUS PREPARING FOR CONCERT.

New Organization, Under Direction of B. Gratz Cox, Making Phenomenal Progress.

The progress being made by the Louisville Oratorio Society with its new choral work, "Israel in Egypt," is little less than phenomenal. This work contains as has long been unanimously conceded by the most noted critics, the greatest eight-part chorus ever written.

The society is only five or six weeks old, but already numbers in its ranks about 100 of the choicest voices in the city. B. Gratz Cox, the director, has been very careful as to his selection of the voices, and as a consequence has what has been pronounced by the local leading profession extraordinary timber and almost a perfect balance of parts, nearly one-half the membership being male voices.

The chorus will be increased to 200 voices for the coming May concert, but only those with good voices and some reading ability will be accepted. While important artists will be engaged for the performance, it is intended to make the work of the chorus the feature. The rehearsals are held every Monday evening at 8 o'clock in the Masonic building, sixth floor. Applications for membership will be received during the remainder of January.

NEW YEAR'S

The Biggest Day of Wash-

GOING TO THE WHITE HOUSE IS STRENUOUS.

PRESIDENT'S RECEPTION SU-PREME FUNCTION OF SEASON.

SOCIAL GOSSIP OF CAPITAL.

[Correspondence of the Courier-Journal.]

Washington, Jan. 3.—New Year's is the busiest, bustling, most important day of all days at the capital of the nation. Christmas is a funeral procession in comparison and the Fourth of July isn't in it a little bit. The town is electric on the first day of the year, everybody in the directory darning gaily nowhere in particular, smart equipages flaunting and finishing, the whole scene unbridled with the dazzling uniforms of the army and navy in felicitous irruption, the gay togs of the diplomats, the great American public, both washed and unwashed, pressing on to the White House.

For it's the White House that drops the red flag. It's the President that says "Let her go!" And there is going!

If you get up day before yesterday and stand in line with yourself for a day and a night before the gates of the White House, before the grand scramble for entrance into the palace on New Year's day, you may just possibly stand a third of a chance of getting admitted. Otherwise don't try. Each year, with the increase of population the hosts that line up, two by two, extend from the White House gates around countless squares into the dinner and more distant perspective. If you are near the end of the queue, your case is quite hopeless, you'll never get in. The promised land is only for the fellows in front. Saint Peter—his other name is usually Capt. Jamison—will have banged the door to and announced "nothing doing" in officialdom when the time of the common herd are admitted. It's up even before you've had a chance to poke your nose around the War Department block corner in your small progress toward the goal. And this is the only time in all the year that the great unfettered American nation has even the ghost of a fling at the presidential presence. When you and I were young, Maggie, even up to Cleveland's time, there was a free-for-all fight at the White House every Saturday afternoon, no credentials shown and no questions asked. "But times have changed," said the cat's meat man.

The Supreme Function.

But the glory that was Greece and the grandeur that was Rome lurk within the covered portico. The New Year's reception at the White House is the supreme pictorial function of the season. The only two others that approach it in bedazzlement are the two evening levees, the one in honor of the diplomatic corps, the other for the army and navy. The guests of honor on each occasion are in full foreign and military regalia respectively. On New Year's day the diplomatic corps and the army and navy for the only time are intermingled in the various State apartments in their magnificent accoutrements. The spectacle is a gorgeous one, though mostly masculine. There is more clanking of sabres than frolic of petticoats. A comparatively small number of official women come to pay their respects to the royal couple on New Year's. Mrs. McKee, ranking lady of the Chinese Embassy, was present Wednesday in Oriental dress. The Chinese women stand in line with the President and Mrs. Roosevelt in the Blue Room until after the diplomatic corps, the army and navy and a few other notable bunches are received, and then scuttle home to their own official reception. The Secretary of the State gives breakfast to the diplomatic corps after leaving the White House every New Year's day. "Not a moment," said the cat's meat man, "might almost be said of the gold-laced soldiers and sailors who have other devotions to make. In fact, by the time the common herd are admitted at 1 o'clock, all the spectacular personages have leaked away except the military and the few of the smiling hostesses. Mrs. Roosevelt never lets go of her smile. A few stray country Congressmen and members of other ineffectual organizations, are about all of the select that are left. They are the last to arrive before the polo. All prominent official women, from the Chinese Embassy to the Russian legation, are at the White House on New Year's afternoon, assisted by a bunch of smart girls. But these are "men only" affairs. Women are gently suggested to keep away, though members of feminine free-lunchers and Washington is full of the breed—do often nervously intrude. Mrs. Fairbanks' Dinner.

Vice President and Mrs. Fairbanks gave a homely, informal dinner after the evening of the new Senators of the season with their senators. The invitations were issued merely by telephone by the Vice President himself. A pretty tribute to the gentlemanly courtesy of the Fairbanks was unconsciously offered by the charming young wife of the Senator from California, Mrs. Fairbanks, who went to the Vice President's dinner, confessed, this little dame, naively, "feeling so terribly, horribly new—the price mark still on me and all that sort of thing. But I didn't feel new in the least. In fact, I forgot almost what I was new—it was all so pleasant and comfy."

More of the congressional folk than usual are spending the holidays. In the dear old days when passes came as easy as falling off a horse, fellow lawmakers headed happily for home with their Christmas recess. The coveted "all-ages" now with the new regime, only the bringing of a member to Congress and taking him back to the tall timber, again, with no provision for intermarriage. In fact, I forgot almost what I was new—it was all so pleasant and comfy."

The Longworth Windows.
The only reason there aren't any more Christmas wreaths at the Longworths is that there aren't any more windows to hang them in. Every single, cemented of the grim residence of the President's daughter that faces on two streets, and really doesn't seem to face anywhere—both sides of the queer old structure on Eighteenth and I streets have a back-door expression in ornate woodwork. The whole building is broken out with holly wreaths like green and red measles. The festive aspect is somewhat in celebration of the happy fact that the young mistress of the manse is home again after her illness at the White House, with no reason to face the severe social campaign just ahead of her. Mrs. Longworth, like other congressional wives, will renew her Tuesday afternoon receptions to the public.

Social headlines of the week have been the grandchildren of the late Mrs. McKee and her brother, Mr. Benjamin Harrison McKee, both grownups that thought they in the nursery when their home was in the White House. Young Mr. McKee, although now a stalwart junior at Yale, in the hearts of his old Washington friends has never quite outgrown his fond sobriquet of "Baby McKee." His pretty sister made her debut this week at a large tea given for her at Rauscher's by her mother, Mrs. James Robert McKee, at which Mrs. McKee, the daughter of the Vice President, was one of the assistants. Miss McKee wore white tulle and held a huge nosegay of orchids and

ITS SEASON'S PLANS

ANNOUNCED IN MUSICAL CLUB'S PROSPECTUS.

Three Concerts Arranged For the First in February, Others in May and December.

In a neat and novel prospectus the Musical Club outlines its plans for the season of 1936-1937. Three concerts are announced in addition to its work of preparing the choral features for the musical festival of the spring of 1936. The first will take place at Macauley's Theater on February 17, with Miss Gaskill as the principal solo attraction; the other two in May and December respectively. These concerts will be given under the direction of George H. Goldstein, a highly cultured musician and conductor of wide experience, who will also direct the festival chorus.

In a sort of a foreword accompanying the prospectus, reference is made to the achievements of the Musical Club within its twenty years of useful history in the giving of many notable works of masters and having contributed its services to seven spring festivals. "That the club may carry out its plans successfully this season it has provided for an associate membership at the nominal fee of $5, entitling the holder to one choice reserved seat at each of the three concerts without extra charge. The cost of the work is in charge of Capt. Andrew Broadus, 304 Columbia building.

Teaching Children To Pray.
Miss Mary D. Hill will address the members of the Graded Union of Sunday-School Teachers on "How to Teach Young Children to Pray" at the meeting of the Union on Friday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock in the Y. M. C. A. building. Fourteen are invited to attend.

Coal Company Incorporated.
The McNary Coal Company incorporated yesterday with a capital stock of $100,000, divided into shares of $100 each and a maximum debt of $50,000. The incorporators, each holding 100 shares, are: A. B. Jones, of Pennard, W. U. Grier, of Bowling Green, R. H. Fox, of Hill county; H. S. McNutt.

Recent Arrivals.

Among the recent Kentucky arrivals in Washington have been Messrs. Morris Bernheim, M. E. Jackson and wife and Miss Jackson, of Louisville; A. H. Hildreth, Paris; Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Rule, Louisville; John R. Hawilton, Charles E. Lewis, of Louisville; and Mrs. Graham and wife, Bowling Green, at the New Willard; Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Padgett, Ludlow.

BODY OF SWITCHMAN TAKEN HOME FOR BURIAL.

James Benson Crushed Between Cuts of Freight Cars and His Life Was Forfeited.

The body of James Benson, the switchman of the Big Four railroad, who was crushed to death while uncoupling cars at the freight yards at Preston and Washington streets Friday night, was taken last night to his home in Louisville.

Benson, who had been one of the striking steel men, had been in the employ of the railroad company as a switchman for a short time. Although there were no witnesses of the accident, it is thought that he came to his death just after having uncoupled two cuts of cars and while he was unaware of one detachment which was bearing down upon him. His legs were badly crushed and he sustained internal injuries. He was removed to the Highland hospital, where he was amputated and efforts were made to save his life. These, however, proved vain and shortly after 10 o'clock Benson died.

Benson was twenty-six years of age and is survived by his wife and two children, two and three years of age. His wife was near Russellville, Ky., and his body was sent to that place last night for burial.

Mothers' Club Meeting.

The Highland Mothers' Club will hold its regular monthly meeting at the residence of Mrs. Polindexter, Druse, 321 Beechwood avenue, on Wednesday afternoon at 3 o'clock. Miss Anna Moore will give a talk on "The Characteristic Training of the Period of Childhood."

White House Guests From Kentucky.

Among the guests at the White House at the New Year's reception were Justice and Mrs. Harlan, and Miss Laura Harlan, the two ladies in the Blue Room in black velvet and white lace; Senator Flies, formerly of Paducah, and his charming wife and sister, Mrs. Winn, of Seattle, the latter spending the winter with the Senator and his wife at the Cochran. Mrs. Flies was handsome in an elaborate French costume of pale blue broadcloth with big blue picture hat. Mrs. Winn, also a former Flies girl, wore a rich toilette of black velvet. Mrs. Longworth, wearing the pallor of the sickroom, sported a stunning costume of pearl-colored chiffon velvet.

Miss Rogers' Narrow Escape.

Miss Elizabeth Rogers, the sixteen-year-old daughter of Mr. Richard Rogers, formerly of Mt. Sterling, Ky., and daughter, Miss Margaret, of El Paso, were in the party, and Capt. Stewart, of Colorado Springs.

Capt. C. C. Calhoun and other Kentucky guests were entertained on Col. Stewart's car while it was side-tracked at the Union station. Senator Culbertson entertained the party at dinner. After doing the eastern cities and the points of interest in Virginia, Cal. Stewart and his guests proceeded to Palm Beach and Havana.

Social Notes.

Mrs. John Watts Kearney and Mrs. Green Clay Goodloe were among the elegantly gowned women at the debut tea of Miss Mary Lodge McKee.

Mrs. John Rodgers, nee Speed, of Louisville, one of the leading social lights of Washington, assisted Mrs. Alexander F. Macrauder at a holiday party.

Miss Mollie Bullock, of Lexington, stopped in Washington a day and night with friends on route home after a visit to Mrs. Waller Bullock in Baltimore.

Mrs. Belle Hensley Cochran, of Frankfort, is entertaining at her home in Annapolis Mrs. Margaret Porterfield Taylor, of Richmond, Va.

Miss Julia Scott, of Paducah, and brother, Mr. William Scott, have taken an apartment for the season at the Ventnor with their cousin, Miss Mary Bingham, of Paducah, who is engaged in the census bureau.

Mrs. W. O. Goss, of Louisville, at the Sheraton, the guest of her sister, Mrs. Turner A. Wickham, formerly Miss Weedon, of Louisville, at the Sheraton, where the French century tapestries hang.

Catarrh and La Grippe.
Rev. George A. E. Troutman, Mt.

and I are strong believers in Peruna."

Walnut Hills, Cincinnati, Ohio, writes:
"For several years I have been troubled with a peculiar catarrhal affection of the throat. It would seize me suddenly and for a few minutes I would be unable to speak audibly, and my breath would be greatly interfered with. I would be obliged to gasp for breath."
"I finally concluded that it was some catarrhal affection which probably excited the spasm. It interfered with my vocation as a preacher, attacking me occasionally in the pulpit."
"I had heard so much about Peruna
as a catarrh remedy that I determined to try it. After taking two bottles my trouble has disappeared. I feel sure that Peruna has greatly benefited me."

Rev. P. E. Swanson, Swedish

Peruna he is perfectly well, entirely cured of chronic diarrhea and catarrh.

CLAIMED POLICY

Because Father Disappeared
Seven Years Ago.

JUDGE KIRBY'S INTERESTING RULING IN INSURANCE CASE.

DIVORCED HUSBAND CANNOT COLLECT WIFE'S POLICY.

EIGHT DECREES OF DIVORCE.

The case of Elizabeth Trockless against the Prudential Life Insurance Company to collect a policy upon the life of her father, Frank Wallenbrock, who has been mysteriously absent from home for seven years, was the subject of an interesting ruling yesterday at joint session. While the amount involved is only $50 it raised some unusual law points.

Mrs. Trockless' attorney represented that she had, during two years of her father's absence, kept up the premiums upon the policy. After presuming that her father was dead she ceased paying them.
Then waiting the statutory seven years in which a person who has disappeared un-accountably is given to return she made application for payment of the policy.
Judge Kirby held that before she can recover upon the policy she must show that she had good reason to believe her father had died either during or upon the lapse of the two years she paid the premium. Otherwise, in order for her to keep the policy alive she must have had so have paid the premiums during that time.

Eight Decrees of Divorce.

The following divorces were granted yesterday: E. Johnson from Birdie D.
Johnson; abandonment alleged. They were married in November, 1902.

Ernest Kessel from Milton Kessel; five years' separation charged. They were married in Jeffersonville in 1907.

John Leavelle from Alice Leavelle; abandonment alleged.

Levy Buckman from James T. Buckman; divorce from bed and board; non-support alleged. They were married January 14, 1904.

Margaret Hilger from Harry Hilger; cruelty charged. They were married December 2, 1901.

Maude C. Fox from A. T. Fox; abandonment charged. They were married August 21, 1901.

Claude Anthony from Little Anthony; improvement charged. They were married May 16, 1904.

Payment Not In Full.

A ruling of importance to persons interested in a dispute over accounts was made yesterday by Judge Miller in the case of R. M. Cunningham against the Standard Construction Company for $250.00, said to be due on account of bill for lumber. Mr. Cunningham had been sent a check for $147.75 by the construction company, which check contained the bill in full. Mr. Cunningham contended that the bill in full was not correct and that there was $250.00 still due.

In responding to the letter of the construction company which accompanied the check, Mr. Cunningham said that he received the sum on account and stated that he would proceed to collect the balance. The defendant objected to this plea, when ruled by Mr. Cunningham in his reply, and interposed a demurrer.

Judge Miller, however, held that as the construction company did not object to Mr. Cunningham receiving the sum on account and did not insist that it should be received as payment in full at the time, it could not raise this point against the prosecution of the suit now.

Had No Insurable Interest.

A divorced husband has no insurable interest upon the life of his former wife,
it was held by Judge Miller in the case of a man who had paid the premiums on a policy on the life of his former wife.
This principle was laid down by Judge
Kirby yesterday in disposing of the administration of Anne Moore Thurman, who has sued the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company to collect a policy of $500 upon the life of the decedent.

The money was claimed through the administrator by James Thurman, the husband.
Judge Kirby stated that as an insurable interest of one person in another had to be established through ties of blood and marriage, the decree separating the Thur-mans legally had voided the policy.

Court Paragraphs.

—Landes & Co. sued L. Miller & Sons for $22.41, charged to be on account.

—W. C. Trubee sued Adolph Ruesner &
Co. for $28.00, said to be due on account.

—The Stewart Dry Goods Company sued Kato C. White for $134.40, alleged due on account.

—The Louisville Trust Company sued
Alvin B. White and John V. Leake for $100, said to be due on notes.

—Nat Ray sued Joe Murphy for $500.
The plaintiff says he holds a policy on the defendant's employ as a hotel carrier.

—Matthew Owens sued Hattie Owens for divorce on the charge of abandonment.
They were married in Jeffersonville August 6, 1901.

—Elizabeth Frommherz sued to secure her life interest in the estate of her husband, Joseph Frommherz, now dead, which she says is worth $1000.

NO LOSS OF LIFE FROM

EARTHQUAKE IN JAMAICA.

Kingston, Jamaica, Jan. 4.—An earthquake of moderate intensity occurred in Jamaica the morning of January 2. It was one of many slight shocks that have been experienced during the past few months and was felt here and generally throughout the islands. The Government seismologist declared today that no damage had been done at Brown's Town, St. James, Port Antonio, or elsewhere, and that there had been no loss of life.

MUSICAL CLUB'S DIRECTOR

TO TALK ON CHORUS SINGING.

At the rehearsal of the Musical Club at Baldwin's Hall to-morrow evening, the conductor, George B. Gookins, will deliver a short lecture on the subject of chorus singing and its value to the student and lover of the art. It is his desire to develop the chorus along the most modern and legitimate lines in order that the work of the chorus may be the predominant feature of all the concerts of the club in the spring festivals. All the members and those who contemplate taking membership in the chorus are invited.

Buffalo, N. Y., Jan. 4.—Judge Hazel,
in the United States District Court, handed down a decision to-day over-ruling the demurrers filed by the Standard Oil Company to indictments issued against it by the grand jury at Jamestown, N. Y., last July. There are seven indictments, which contain over 1700 counts. The case must now go to trial, and will probably be heard at the March term of the District Court in this city.

The principal grounds of demurrer to each indictment were that the indictment does not specify the route from Olean to Norwood, on which the establishment was made at a less rate than the tariff rates published and filed; also that the Elkins law is unconstitutional, and generally that the indictments do not charge an offense.

MISSIONARY YEAR

So Last Church Twelve month Is Characterized.

NOTABLE BROADENING OF CONCEPTION OF MISSIONS.

EPISCOPALIANS MOST ACTIVE OF ALL DENOMINATIONS.

PROGRESS OF RELIGION.

From a church standpoint, 1907 was a notable, although not an extraordinary year. Few new movements were started during the twelvemonth, but a number of matters were advanced, and among religious leaders the year is counted to have been one of progress. It has been essentially a missionary year, because practically all conferences and conventions were pronounced missionary in their outlook. Of the great conventions of the year it can be said that the missionary spirit predominated at all of them; some of those especially noteworthy in this regard being the Episcopal General Convention, the Christian Endeavor Convention, the International Convention of the Young Men's Christian Association, and the several Presbyterian associations. A change in sentiment, made apparent during the year, may be illustrated by stating that the term "missionary" no longer means "foreign missions" merely, but all missions of the world. The cause of home missions and church extension have been brought especially to the front as the people of the churches have realized the changes in the character of the American population due to immigration, and the need of American evangelization has found marked emphasis.

Laymen's Missionary Movement.

Distinctively on foreign mission lines the Laymen's Missionary Movement has presented the spectacular advance of the past year. Organized in November of 1906, as the result of the centennial celebration of the beginning of foreign work by American churches, it has been presenting to gatherings of men in various parts of the United States the responsibility which rests upon the churches for the evangelization of the heathen world. The aim of the movement has been so to increase contributions to foreign mission causes as to make it possible to preach the Gospel to all "heathen" in this generation. In a number of cities conventions have been held under the auspices of the movement, and at all of these resolutions have been adopted stating it to be the intention of the laymen to make large increases in their foreign mission contributions, through various denominational agencies, during the coming year.

Home mission interests have viewed with some alarm this enlistment of the laymen in the foreign mission cause, and it has been proposed to ask the Laymen's Missionary Movement to include domestic missions in its program, making the work of the movement as broad as its name, but there has been no indication that the change will be made. It is not improbable, therefore, that the year 1908 will see the inauguration of a new missionary movement organized under home missionary auspices and with the Christianization of America as its primary object.

Episcopalians Especially Active.

Among the religious bodies of America the Episcopalians had a year of activity surpassing those of most of the others, and they have large plans for 1908. The visit of the Bishop of London, the celebration of three hundred years of English Christianity in America, the presentation of a thank offering by the men, the slight opening of Episcopal pulpits to men of other religious bodies—these are some of the things that provided leaders with work and the country with news. There is almost an entire cessation of old time disputes between high and low church, and a marked increase in missionary zeal. It was not long ago that a very large portion of Episcopalians did not believe in foreign missions and frankly said so. That is changed and that change ended saw not a little of the end of it. The big Episcopal events of 1908 are abroad. These are the Lambeth Conference and the Pan-Anglican Congress. Every ten years as many of the Bishops of the Church of England throughout the world, and of its allied communions, including the Episcopal Church in America, as can be spared at time and money, go to Lambeth Palace, on the bank of the Thames and there talk over Church matters and have a good social time. The host of the occasion is the Archbishop of Canterbury.

Social Attention for Bishops.

At the last conference Queen Victoria paid much attention to American Bishops and was especially attentive to Bishop Whipple, of Minnesota, a picturesque figure and at the same time the oldest of American Bishops. This year it is expected that King Edward will show the Bishops some social attention. Somewhat more than two hundred bishops will be in attendance, including a large delegation from this country and Canada.

The Pan-Anglican Congress is something new. It has no connection with the Anglican Conference and does not cover the same dates. Both will sit during the London season, however, which is our millennium. The greater of the two is the conference in order that bishops present for one may attend the other. The congress is not a missionary body, but a legislative one, but it is a gathering of great leaders, who are to discuss not only missions, but a lot of other church topics. This is done, not in open debate, but by papers that will be presented, although not always read. The plan of the congress is unique and is a modern invention intended to meet a modern condition, a large body of men, each with something to say and nobody with much time to say it in. All prominent Episcopalians who can do so are going to England this year to attend either conference or congress, or to shine in the reflected light of one or the other.

American Protestants' Council.

The great American gathering of 1908 is expected to be the first meeting of the Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America, which has already been announced for December in Philadelphia. This meeting will represent the culmination of many years' work in the cause of federation. Up to this time there has been no official federative body representing a large proportion of the American churches. The Federal Council will be composed of officially named delegates from nearly thirty denominations representing an aggregate membership of about 18,000,000. It is believed by leaders that the council will come to be the mouthpiece for Protestantism in all great questions affecting the ethical and moral problems of the country.

The council is to have no legislative powers, and it will meet merely to discuss the great questions before American Christianity. The fact that its membership will be official, however, will give to its deliberations a weight that has never before been equaled in interdenominational assemblies. Another or factor adding to the importance of the meeting of the council this year is the fact that the cause of church union was formulated, although the first meeting will doubtless plan for a number of representative committees on different phases of church work through which the influence of the council may be exerted in the interests of its meetings.

Church Union Progresses Little.

It is deemed unlikely that any definite steps in the direction of the organic union of denominations will be taken during the year, and it cannot be said that the cause of church union was greatly advanced during 1907. By action of the Congressional National Council of the United Brethren in Christ, Methodist Protestants and United Brethren was postponed for a number of years, and some leaders say that the plan is at an end. It is possible that Methodist Protestants and United Brethren may undertake a union movement, leaving Congregationalists out, and the first steps toward such union may be taken this year, as the quadrennial conference of the United Brethren is to be held. There is talk of union between Baptists and Free Baptists, but nothing definite is immediately in sight.

There are also rumors of union movements among the Presbyterian and allied denominations, and the largest Presbyterian body, known as the Presbyterian Church, North, is credited with aspirations for a general Presbyterian union under its auspices. Few other bodies have shown any willingness to be absorbed, however, and it may be several years before definite proposals are made. A close federation of the Presbyterian family has been effected during the past year in a council, the Methodist Missions Reorganized.

The past year has been notable among Methodists, principally because it saw the rearrangement of the missionary work of the denomination, which was decided upon at the last General Conference. The missionary administration has been divided into two departments, home and foreign, with results that are admittedly unsatisfactory. Leaders are quoted as believing that matters will adjust themselves during this year, although the foreign mission department has to enter the year with a deficit of $35,000, caused only by the change in administrative methods.

The great Methodist event of 1908 will be the quadrennial General Conference, to meet in May. The affairs of missions, of whom it is certain that the conference will name some, possibly as many as eight.

It is said by Methodist leaders that there is not so great a desire for apointment to the episcopacy among Methodist ministers as there was a few years ago. A readjustment has taken place, and several of them have died in the harness, worn out in recent years, and it is said that the General Conference in May may choose younger men for the office than has heretofore been the rule.

Congregational Centralization.

The important matter among Congregationalists in 1907, other than the action on church union already mentioned, was the tendency, expressed at the meeting of the National Council, toward centralization. The lines of congregationalism, strictly speaking, are being gradually broken down by the giving of a practically representative power to local, State and national bodies, and leading Presbyterians assert that the Congregational Church is rapidly becoming Presbyterian in everything except name and doctrine.

Some of the larger individual Congregational churches are standing steadily on the individual rights of the individual church, but in many sections there is no opposition whatever to the new order of things, and recommendations of the National Council are being put into effect in many States. A notable example is found among Congregational churches on the Pacific coast, where what is practically a representative church government is being set up.

Baptists Increase and Prosper.

In the Baptist Church the year has been marked by little that is especially notable, and few important matters are pending. The denomination is making a steady advance in membership and in missionary zeal. A readjustment has recently been effected of the affairs of the Baptist Young People's Union, which have been occupying the attention of Baptist leaders for several years. The publishing interests of the Union have been turned over to the Denominational Publishing Society, and the Union will hereafter confine its efforts to organizing the young people of the churches for more effective service. On this new basis it enters the year 1908.

The Presbyterian and the Reformed Churches have annual legislative assemblies, meeting in May and June, but no great questions are projected for the meetings of these bodies in 1908. Presbyterians have a proposition in for a new catechism, to be couched in modern language and adapted for use in Sunday-schools and homes, but it is not yet certain that the subject will receive sufficient support to secure the appointment of a committee by the General Assembly. In all the churches having the Presbyterian system of government there is marked advance in missionary work, on both the home and the foreign fields, contributions of such work being steadily on the increase.

Young People's Societies Active.

The Young People's Missionary Movement, an interdenominational organization for the education of the young people of all the churches in missionary affairs, is to mark the new year by an innovation in the form of a convention to be held in Pittsburgh in March. The movement has maintained summer conferences at Silver Bay and other resorts, but has not before attempted a city convention. No effort is to be made to secure a large attendance, but the convention will be held by the various home and foreign mission boards and societies are expected to attend. It is expected that the gathering will be a representative one. An announced feature of the programme is the first showing of moving pictures from foreign mission lands, and in them membership figures are rapidly mounting up.

CITIES AS BIG STATES.

[Baltimore American.] Perhaps before the dawning of the Twenty-first century there will be one city on this enterprising earth, and possibly a half dozen of them, that will cover in solid blocks an area as big as the whole State of Maryland. The suggestion is not by any means as fantastic as it may seem at first thought. The city of London now covers in its metropolitan and city police districts an area of 602 square miles, which is about twenty-two and one-third times the area at present included within Baltimore's boundaries. In 1901 London had a population of 5,580,000. During the decade from 1881 to 1901 London's population increased by 1,800,000. The experts of the London Water Board estimate that the population of the British metropolis will be about 12,000,000 in 1926 and 15,000,000 in 1951. If the London of 1880 uses only the same proportionate ratio of space to population as at present, the area covered will be about 1,200 square miles—in other words, if the London of a half century hence were not down in the State of Delaware, there would be only a narrow suburban fringe left outside the boundaries.

Y. W. C. A. Closes First Year.

The close of the first year's work of the Young Women's Christian Association, since the union of all the American associations was accomplished under the presidency of Miss Grace H. Dodge, has just passed. During the year a careful study has been made of conditions and needs, and 1908 will see aggressive work along several lines. Especially is work planned to be done in crowded sections of the cities. There are now reported 109,000 members of city associations and nearly 1,500,000 has been raised during 1907 for new buildings.

CITIES AS BIG STATES.

Both New York and Chicago, according to estimates of local statisticians of these respective towns, will, by the middle of the present century, surpass London in population. If these various estimates may be accepted as approximately accurate, we shall, by the end of another fifty years, have three English-speaking cities, each of which will be crowded, if there is an area outside that is no bigger than the State of Delaware. But fifty years is a small-time item in the life of a city. London is now more

RUNNING A NEWSPAPER.

[New York Tribune.] Everybody ought to know something about the way newspapers are run, because everyone wants to run them, said Edward A. More, in a talk to the Women's Press Club. After recounting some of the difficulties that beset editors in their efforts to give people news, Mr. More said: "The next time you write a letter to the editor and don't see it in print the following day, just remember that lots of things are happening besides those in your immediate sphere. The President's message can't be shortened to a column and a half to make space for your letter on the condition of the streets in the Bronx or the man who didn't give a seat to a woman or the woman who didn't smile when he gave it to her. You wouldn't buy a paper that was filled with letters to the editor, even if they were all from members of your club, and no one else would buy it." Mr. More also observed that reporters were not responsible for head lines. So when a time a reporter comes to interview you at 2:30 a. m. don't throw him off the front porch," he urged, "because you didn't like the head lines on his last story. He wasn't to blame."

IN LOUISVILLE SOCIETY

TUESDAY AFTERNOON

WEDNESDAY EVENING

The Wedding of Miss Laura Ragland McFerran to Mr. W. C. Priest Frazier To Be Solemnized in the Lander Memorial Church At 6 O'Clock.

The wedding of Miss Laura Ragland McFerran to Mr. W. C. Priest Frazier will take place on Wednesday evening at 6 o'clock in the Lander Memorial church on Cherokee road.

The ceremony will be performed by the Rev. B. M. Meesick, who officiated at the wedding of the bride's parents.

Miss Harriet McFerran will be the maid of honor and Mrs. H. B. Thomas, of Chicago, will be the matron of honor.

The bridesmaids will be Miss Clara Shouse and Miss Margaret Frazier, the sister of the groom.

Mr. Hooper Hall will be the best man and the groomsmen will be Mr. Scott Bullitt, Mr. Pratt Dale, Mr. James J. Hayes and Mr. Lanham Frazier, of Nashville.

The bride will enter the church with her father, Mr. Calvin W. McFerran, who will give her in marriage.

The church will be beautifully decorated in green and white, the wedding colors. Ropes of cedar, caught at the chandeliers with great white tulle bows, will form a canopy over the church. The pulpit will be banked in ferns and palms.

Miss McFerran will wear a handsome wedding gown of white satin duchesse made Princess fashion with a long train. The bride will be trimmed with a bertha of real lace and the sleeves will be formed of hand-embroidered chiffon. Her tulle veil will be fastened without ornament and her jewelry will be a diamond necklace with three diamond pendants, an heirloom in her family. Miss McFerran will carry a bouquet of bride's roses.

Mrs. Thomas will wear an Empire gown of white radium silk and will carry a long, loose cluster of asparagus plumosa tied with green tulle. In her hair she will wear a coronet of white tulle with a white aigrette.

The maid of honor will wear a pastel green radium silk gown, the skirt bordered with panne velvet with a white border in Greek key design. The bridesmaids will be dressed in green and will carry American Beauty roses.

The bridesmaids will wear white liberty satin gowns and will carry clusters of plumosa tied with green tulle and will wear white tulle coronets.

After the ceremony there will be a reception at the home of the bride's parents on Cherokee road.

The house will be elaborately decorated in palms, ferns, asparagus plumosa, smilax and white flowers.

Mrs. and Mrs. Frazier will leave at 2:30 o'clock for New Orleans on their wedding trip and will be at home after February 1 at 1422 Cherokee Parkway.

MAKES LIFE MISERABLE.

Troubles That Keep Half the Louisville Doctors Busy.

For the sake of your personal well-being, just think a moment about the process of digesting food.

There are certain secretions called gastric juices that act upon the food after it is swallowed and change all the nutrition in it into life-giving blood. Anything that interferes with the secretion of these gastric juices, weakens and makes a chronic state of stomach weakness inevitable.

From now on build up the strength and health of the stomach with MIO-na tablets. You will soon find yourself stronger and never know the meaning of indigestion.

Half of the prescriptions the Louisville doctors write are for troubles that result directly from a weakened stomach. Strengthen the stomach muscles, increase the secretion of gastric juices, and you will find that common afflictions—indigestion, with its headaches, dizziness, depression of spirits, spots before the eyes, nervousness, sleeplessness and general debility—have been overcome.

If MIO-na did not have an unusually curative effect on the stomach, it could not be sold on the guarantee given by T. P. Taylor & Co. (Incorporated) to refund the money unless it does all that is claimed for it. They give an absolute, unqualified guarantee with every 6-cent box of MIO-na that the money will be refunded unless the medicine cures. They take the whole risk, and you certainly can afford to get MIO-na from them on this plan.

DOWN THE RED SEA

A TRIP NEAR WHERE THE BONES OF EVE ARE SAID TO LIE BURIED

BY FRANK G. CARPENTER.

ON the German East Africa Steamer Feldmarschal, Dec. 18.—I am on a German steamer of 5,000 tons, sailing down the Red Sea. We took ship three days ago at Port Said, and were eighteen hours going through the Suez canal. We tarried a while at Suez and we are now off Port Soudan, where the new railroad across the Nubian desert begins. We are just opposite Jeddah, where, according to the Mohammedans, Mother Eve was buried, and where the pilgrims start out over the desert to Mecca. With the ship's glass one can almost see the place where the greatest grandmother of all mankind lies. She rests outside the wall in a tomb 400 feet long, and a mosque rises over her dust. You have heard the Mohammedan story of how Adam fell. Eve gave him the apple, and he ate it, and as a punishment both he and she were cast out of the Garden of Eden. As they dropped a strong west wind was blowing, and this wafted the fairy form of Eve to Arabia; while Adam, with his heavier weight, fell down in Ceylon. There is a string of coral keys running from Ceylon to Hindoostan, which is still known as Adam's bridge, and it was over them that he started out on his long hunt for Eve. It took him 200 years to find her, and the meeting was somewhere near Mecca. What became of Adam's bones we do not know, but those of Eve are supposed to lie at Jeddah.

Jeddah is just about half way down the Red Sea. It took us thirty-six hours to come here, and we shall be fully that long in steaming to the Strait of Bab-el-Mandeb, where we enter the Indian ocean. The Red Sea is mighty small on the map. It looks like a scratch between Asia and Africa, but the scratch is actually about 200 miles wide in many places, and so deep that the most of the Blue Ridge mountains could be dropped into it, and only their higher peaks would reach the surface. The Red Sea is so long that if it began in Ireland and extended westward across the Atlantic it would go half way to Canada. If it could be lifted up and laid down upon the United States with Suez at Philadelphia, Bab-el-Mandeb would be a hundred miles or so beyond Omaha, Neb., and all the way between would be a sea canal as wide as from New York to Washington, or wide enough to accommodate all the navies of the world afloat, and leave a hundred miles or more to spare.

Rival For the Suez Canal.

This mighty waterway narrows almost to a point at each end. Where it leaves the Indian ocean it is no wider than the English channel at Dover, and it is lost at the north in the Suez Canal. Starting at Bab-el-Mandeb, the coasts broaden out and then run almost straight to the upper end, where they fork into two gulfs and inclose the lower part of the Sinai peninsula. These two gulfs are those of Suez and Akabah. The gulf of Suez is 170 miles long, and it has been joined to the Mediterranean by the Suez Canal. The gulf of Akabah is 110 miles long, and capitalists are now talking of making a canal from it to the Mediterranean. The Akabah Canal would be a considerable distance east of the Suez canal, but it would practically parallel it. It would run through Turkish territory, and for this reason it can be built without infringing on the Suez canal concession, which relates to Egypt alone. I am told that a new canal would pay well. That of Suez is already overcrowded, and there is enough business for two.

As to the Red Sea itself, it has deep water throughout. Along the main channel there is a full half mile of salt sea under the ships, and in some places it is more than a mile and a half deep. The average depth of the gulf of Suez is greater than the height of a twenty-story flat, and two Washington Monuments, one on top of the other, could "use both feet getting on" as they do be sunk into the Strait of Bab-el-Mandeb and leave plenty of water above for the deepest ocean steamer to go over them.

Hot and Salty Air.

The Red Sea is hot. I have steamed many miles along the equator, but this is much hotter. The water here is shut in on both sides by deserts, which furnish no streams to cool it, and the tropical sun beats down from January to December. As a result the surface of the water is often 100 degrees above zero, and it forms a great hot-water plant steaming the air. The sun's rays are bottled up also by the deserts, which act as a second heat radiating plant. The result is that the air is often suffocating and there seems to be only a waving sheet of blue steel between us and the lower regions. Indeed, were it not for the electric fan in my cabin I should be unable to write, and outside upon deck we have double roofs of canvas to temper the rays of the sun. Last night many of the passengers slept outside their cabins on account of the heat. We eat out meals fanned by electricity, and yesterday we had a sandstorm, which covered our ship with red dust, and even entered the portholes and got into the beds. That storm came from Arabia, and it may have swallowed up some of the pilgrims now on their way to Mecca.

The air here is so salty that one can almost eat eggs without seasoning. The water contains so much salt that if 100 pounds of it are boiled down, four pounds of salt will be found in the bottom of the kettle. The evaporation is so great that were it not for the inflow of the Indian Ocean the sea would, within less than a century, go into the air and leave in its place one immense block of salt. Indeed, these waters are more salty than those of the ocean, and they are saltier than the Mediterranean and most other salt seas.

I had expected to find the Red Sea coasts more thickly populated. There are no cities of any size and very few villages. Even Suez has only about eighteen thousand people, and of them not more than three thousand are Europeans. The town has large docks, but its trade is small, and it has had nothing like the growth which men thought would follow the completion of the canal. There is direct railroad connection with Cairo, and passengers on their way home from India stop there and join their ships at Alexandria, or take other steamers from that port.

Kosier and Its Mines.

Have you ever heard of the town of Kosier? It is a Red Sea port that at one time had a great trade. It lies on the west coast some distance south of Suez. It was formerly the end of the caravan route from the Nile, and the early Christians crossed over that way and took boats for the Sinai peninsula to reach the mountain where Moses received the commandments. To-day Kosier is a stopping place for Egyptian pilgrims on their way to Jeddah. It used to be much more important in that respect than now. It had many inns and hotel tents outside. It was well supplied with dancing girls and the other surroundings of a true pilgrimage center. Then the Suez canal came and killed it. The port is now nothing. Its big houses have fallen into ruins and it has become a village of one-story huts. There are emerald mines near it, however, and the desert region about shows evidences of having been once worked for gold.

NEW YORK HAS A LAUGH AT BOSTON WAYS

"I didn't catch cold so easily, I'd take off my hat every time," someone said Boston to me. I said a nearly bald New Yorker, according to the New York Tribune, "I'm just back after my first visit to that town—had a week there—and, say, such evidence of a superior erudition never confronted one outside an institution of learning."

"First thing when I landed at the South station, I asked a man who looked as if he might be the proprietor of a delicatessen store how I could get to the Public Garden. He said: 'I should advise you to go to the end of the station and take the elevated,' etc. 'I should advise you!' Honestly, I came near laughing in his face, it seemed so funny. Here in New York one would get: 'Take the 'L' there,' and a wave of the arm in some general direction. Maybe he wouldn't get even that."

"It's more or less generally known, I suppose, that the street car conductors in Boston never yell 'Step lively!' or 'Get on top of the other, could 'use both feet getting on' as they do here. At least I'd heard so and therefore expected to be treated in a genteel, ladylike manner. But I got a surprise, prepared though I was for the worst. "When my car got to the base of Bunker Hill and my wife and I started toward the rear platform, which was crowded, the conductor called out from the middle of the car—what do you think? No, he didn't yell: 'Let 'em off, there!' He said—'Gee! I hate to tell you, but it's true; he said: 'Vantage way, please!'"

"The missus was laughing as loudly as I was, and when we alighted she said: 'I didn't think we'd find any real Johnny Boston Beans here, but we've encountered one the very first day.'"

"Erudition sticks out all over the town, too—erudition and a certain pleasing, though to a New Yorker startling, precision as to details. Several houses I saw in the neighborhood of Boston Tech, and out on Massachusetts avenue had signs in the windows which read:

PRIVATE WAY.
No Passing Through.

"The same alley here in all probability, would have been posted thus:

KEEP OUT.
Trespassers Will Be Prosecuted to Full Extent of the Law.

"TO BE LET."

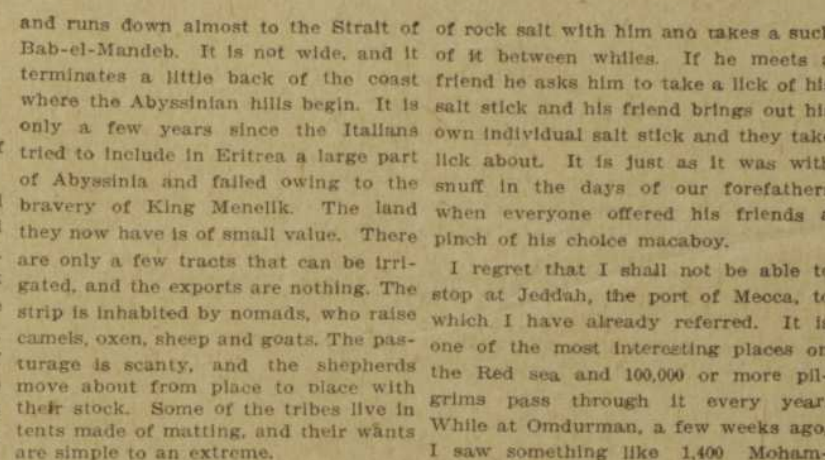

"In New York when they close a street for anything or nothing, the teeth, was moseying down Boylston street—nearly everybody moseys along in Boston, don't you know. Well, I made bold to ask him please, pardon, me, but would he be so kind as to inform us where we might get aboard a street car that would convey us to Hawyard—politeness and precision of grammar and pronunciation are conspicuous there; you fall victim to 'em quite unconsciously. Cross my heart and hope to burn forevermore if this isn't what the robust man said, as he took his bulldog pipe from his mouth and lifted his hat very high to the missus:

"Certainly, sir; it will be a pleasure to aid you."

"He went to the curb and rubbed up and down the street, and then said: 'I don't see a Hawyard car now, but one will pass along this street soon. It will have a brown body and wanted to see Harvard, but didn't know whether it was this way or that. That will take you to the Hawyard Gate.'"

"Real nice of them to tell you why it is necessary for you to drive several blocks out of your way, wasn't it?"

"The people up there are just as nice as their signs, too. My wife and I had just put cricks in our respective necks scrutinizing the Sargent friezes in the Public Library, and had gone out into Copley Square, turned around as to directions, as we were every time we turned around as to persons. We wanted to see Harvard, but didn't know whether it was this way or that. That will take you to the Hawyard Gate."

RED SEA AT SOUDAN.

and runs down almost to the Strait of Bab-el-Mandeb. It is not wide, and it terminates a little back of the coast where the Abyssinian hills begin. It is only a few years since the Italians tried to include in Eritrea a large part of Abyssinia and failed owing to the bravery of King Menelik. The land they now have is of small value. There are only a few tracts that can be irrigated, and the exports are nothing. The strip is inhabited by nomads, who raise camels, oxen, sheep and goats. The pasture is scanty, and the shepherds move about from place to place with their stock. Some of the tribes live in tents made of matting, and their wants are simple to an extreme.

Town On a Reef.

The chief Italian port is Massawa. It is a little town situated on a coral island and joined to the mainland by a causeway. It has two short railways which connect with the Abyssinian hills and which comprise altogether about forty-eight miles of track. The road is to be continued to the town of Asmara, near which some gold mines have been opened.

I am told that the Italians have recently built a telegraph line from their port to the capital of Abyssinia and that they are trying to increase their trade with that country. They are shipping considerable salt, which, strange to say, is so relished by the Abyssinians that it brings more than sugar and takes much the same place among them as candy and tobacco with us. The average Abyssinian carries a stick Mediterranean sea. They also come from India and southern Arabia, and Jeddah takes her toll from each of them. The people live by fleeing the devotees. The town is full of hotels and it is noted for its discomforts. It has a bad water supply and after each big rain there is an epidemic of fever. All who land in Jeddah go on foot from there to Mecca. The distance is sixty-five miles and a guide is required.

The British are now talking of building a railroad from Jeddah to Mecca. If they do it will probably pay well, for the travel is enormous. Twenty-five years ago there were more than 60,000 Mohammedans, who came annually by sea to make their way over the sands to Mecca and Medina. There are probably half again as many now to-day, and the railroad will so reduce the cost of the trip that the number of worshippers will be greatly increased. Indeed, the day may come when some Mohammedan tourist agent will be selling to pilgrims from all parts of the Mohammedan world round trip tickets to the birthplaces of the prophet, including admission to the Kaaba and also to Medina, where Mohammed died. The Sultan is already building a line southward from Damascus to Mecca, 600 miles of the road being already completed, and it is expected that it will reach Medina in 1909 and Mecca early in 1910. There is now a line from Beirut to Damascus, and one will be able to start in at that port in the western Mediterranean and go to Damascus, Jerusalem and Mecca without change of cars. The Mecca line is being built by Turkish soldiers, under the supervision of a German civil engineer, and the cost is being in part defrayed by the voluntary contributions of Mohammedans in all parts of the world.

Trip a Risky One.

When these railroads are completed there may be a chance for Christians to visit the holy city. All who have been there in the past have had to go in disguise, and the man who would attempt it to-day takes his life in his hand. The railroad will be offered by Mohammedans, and it is doubtful whether they will take Christians as passengers. They will have to cater to the pilgrims, as it is from them that their traffic must come.

In the meantime, without wishing to act as did the fox who called the grapes sour, I do not believe there is much to see in Mecca after all. The town lies in a hot sandy valley watered for the most of the year by a few brackish wells and some cisterns. The best water comes in from Ararat through a little aqueduct, and it is sold at high prices by a water trust, at the head of which is the Governor of the city.

Mecca, all told, has only about 50,000 inhabitants. It fills the valley and runs up the sides of the hills. The houses are of dark stone, built in one, two and three stories. They stand close to the streets. There are no pavements; it is often dusty and it takes all the holiness of the surroundings to make life agreeable.

The most important place in Mecca is the sacred mosque, and the most important thing in the mosque is the Kaaba, a cube-shaped stone building, which lies in its center. In the southeast corner of this building at about five feet from the ground, is the black meteorite, which the Mohammedans say was once a part of one of the Gates of Paradise. When Adam was cast out, this stone fell with him and it dropped down near Mecca. At that time it was of a beautiful white color, but it is now turned to jet, having been blackened by the kisses of sinners. Every pilgrim who comes to Mecca, and there are no pilgrims in the mosque, are out of their minds to see it, and, kneeling, kiss it again and again, exclaiming that "as he does so his sins go up to him into the stone, and his soul becomes as pure as it was when he was a baby. There are several hundred thousand pilgrims who perform this kissing act every season, so that the holy stone of the Kaaba gets its millions of kisses every year. What a load of sin it must carry!"

QUEER ARTICLES SOLD AT DEAD-LETTER OFFICE AUCTIONS

LORD DUNDREARY'S brother George bought a Western farm and sent him a sample of it in a pillow. A red brick sent through the mails which finally landed in the dead-letter office may be a sample of a house somebody else has bought, says the Washington Post. The brick is but one of hundreds of unexpected things that fall of delivery and are offered for sale at auction by the Post-office Department.

There has recently been a daily sale at a Ninth-street auction house from a collection of some 2,000 packages of undelivered mail matter, and from the grumbling of the regular buyers there have been few real bargains. Merely private persons, curious for the most part, or set on the purchase of particular parcels, have crowded out and overbidden the speculators, the junk dealers and the petty storekeepers. Perhaps a fourth of the people are women. "There are no bargains," said a junk dealer.

This he charged to the impartial accuracy of the catalogue. The articles are so exactly described that there is hardly an element of chance in the sales.

The crowd has seemed disposed to pay about the real value of the things. This is due mainly to the spirit of competition. As a woman said:

"I marked this number and made up my mind not to pay more than seventy-five cents for it; but that little man over there was so exasperating, raising my bid almost before I could speak it, that I determined to get it anyhow. Now I've paid just twice as much as I meant to."

The sale lacks the excitement of an express company's sale of unclaimed packages, in which there is much uncertainty and the mania for gambling inspires the bidders. The catalogue of 15,400 to fifty-eight papers of needles, for example, in one with "two pairs of needles" is explicit and fair.

"A woman invented the glass-door oven. The glass is treated in some way that makes it heat proof. The invention promises to be a money-maker. "In baking a delicate cake in the old-fashioned way, you are continually cooling your oven by opening it to keep the cake out. The result is often that the cake falls—is as heavy, when it is done, as lead."

and, being distributed days in advance, there is small chance for speculators to reap a large profit.

Whatever is not new is marked as damaged. Thus: "Damaged cheap razor, unfinished gingham apron, damaged garters, fifty damaged cigars," is one parcel.

A curious thing is the number of papers of needles included in all sorts of packages. Of the first 500 parcels sold nearly fifty contained each from twenty-four to fifty-eight papers of needles. For example, in one with "two pairs of needles," five stock collars (one damaged), 4 yards cheap ribbon, back comb, cushion top, there were "200 pairs needles."

Package 158 contained "razor strap, ob's shirt (15), necktie, woman's mits, laundry bag, 100 Egyptian cigarettes, twenty-four papers needles." Why so large a portion of undelivered mail parcels should include papers of needles is not clear. That most of the guests at a country preacher's donation party brought flatirons was explained by a girl's garters, five stock collars (one damaged), 4 yards cheap ribbon, back comb, cushion top, there were "200 pairs needles."

There is hardly anything under the heavens weighing not more than four pounds that is not found in the undelivered mail matter. There is even a fruit cake, a ham, and a human jawbone.

Doubtless many of the misdirected or unclaimed articles were intended as presents.

"The rain water we got by catchin' it in our shirts, and wringin' it into a bottle. The shirts was red flannel, and when we wrung them the color run a little. Thus our drinkin' water alius was the hue of blood. "But I started to tell you about the tortle."

"We caught this tortle after two days' fastin', and he was the size of a trunk. There was enough meat on him to last ten days, but would he keep? If he wouldn't, we was liable to starve. Carlos says to me, he says: "We'll have to treat this here tortle like the natives does," he says. "We'll

This would account for the large number of handkerchiefs, neckties, articles of jewelry, and the like. Others suggest that absent and wandering husbands and sons have been a care to wives and mothers, who have sent to them underwear, chest protectors, and bottles of spring tonic.

Then it is highly probable that persons who have visited relatives or friends have left behind them a varied assortment of personal belongings, notably tooth brushes. These must be careless persons who failed to bring away with them their false teeth, several sets of which are catalogued. Even more absent-minded is the man who has a wooden stick for a Mexican saddle, a wooden pumpkin and gourds, and a kettle and other kitchen utensils, bridle and halter, footballs, wooden shoes, a starfish, damaged underwear, cheap watches, a man's pajamas, rosaries, a crucifix, a woman's hair switch, a woman's bustle, a scrap basket, ticket punch, nursing bottle, Aeolian harp. Another surprising thing is the number of fountain pens gone astray. These are not sent out by manufacturers or dealers, but like the papers of needles are included among miscellaneous articles, often three or four in one parcel. "Then there are besides cases of cheap watches, many gold case watches, rings and other pieces of jewelry. Parcel 27 contained 'cut glass pepper and salt shakers, two silver handled toothbrushes, silver handled buttonhook, pearl penholder and gold pen.' There are about 1,200 packages of books, some with three or four or even six volumes each. They are of all kinds, from the Bible to the novel of the day."

At the city post-office is a small museum with a collection of curious things which have found their way to the dead-letter office. The most numerous of the articles are pistols, bowie knives and other weapons.

In revolving cases are soldiers' photographs which failed to reach the persons to whom they were addressed during the Civil War. Here and there a photograph is gone, and in its place is a card saying it has been claimed by a daughter or some other near relative,

CORRESPONDENCE PAGE OF FASHIONS & BEAUTY

Military Effects In Midwinter Suits.

WITH the advancing season military effects in women's costumes are more and more pronounced. There are various reasons for this. First, the Louis coat. This elegant garment, designed especially for reception and calling costumes, and made from the most supple of velvets and cloths, with brocade or embroidered or braided vest, lace jabot and feather-laden hat, is quite beyond the purse and the needs of the average American woman. Yet its lines are so becoming, it gives such an air of distinction to the woman of even ordinary figure, that the American woman of moderate means insisted upon having it in a modified form, better suited to church-going, simpler calls and even ordinary street wear.

Wherefore the pattern makers evolved a coat of medium length, rather more tight-fitting than the Louis coat pure and simple, with a snug vest, high collar, sleeves either full length or three-quarter and much soutache braid. Sometimes the coat is fitted closely to the figure, demanding the very perfection of the tailor's art. Again it is semi-fitting, and in the case of velvet it is almost as loose as a kimono coat.

In the case of the tight-fitting coat the vest is narrow and almost as long as the coat proper, but almost invariably of a contrasting color. A stunning model in this line was in a rich autumnal brown, heavily braided in self-tone, and a vest of yellowish orange. Another model was in sage-green cloth, with a vest of rich cream-white broadcloth, braided in sage-green soutache.

The skirts for wear with these tailored military coats are generally plaited and trimmed around the bottom with graduated bands of braid. With the more dressy coats loose-fitting and three-quarter sleeves, the circular skirt, with much fine braiding, is the correct combination.

With all the tailored coats along military lines the very high straight collar appears, and this is trimmed heavily with soutache braid. In some of the fancy braids a touch of gold appears and many buttons, either all-gilt or enameled with a touch of gilt, appear.

The design showing the tight-fitting, a large buckle or quill should be worn with this jacket, while dogskin gloves are a better combination than the finer, softer kids.

The last illustration shows a fancy vest which can be used to make over last year's coat. This means cutting over a straight, semi-fitting, hip-length or three-quarter coat, facing the front pieces back with silk or satin, finishing the front edges with flat braid and wearing the coat over the vest. The double-breasted or single-breasted style may be selected, and if the outer coat is plain cloth, then the vest may be selected, and if the vest may be of figured or braided cloth. Vice versa, a fancy outer coat, such as check or stripe, demands the plain vest. Buttons are an important feature of any vest, and should be selected with care. It pays to put a little extra money in these, as they set off the little garment as nothing else will.

The new long storm coats with the lining or fur collars and turn-back cuffs nearly all show a military touch in the frogs used for the finish. Military lines are also shown on some house dresses, and many of the sheath-like boleros and jackets worn over house frocks are heavily braided.

SECTION 3

New Roles For Four Popular Actresses

Ibsen, Esmond and Fitch Interpreted By Fiske.

Nazimova, Barrymore and Elliott--News of New York Stage.

EW YORK Jan. 3.—The two most intellectual actresses of fame on the American stage to-day, Minnie Maddern Pkiss and Anna Siddons, are playing two of dramatic drama, Ethel Barrymore and Maxine Elliott, begin the new year in fitting changes of character, and three of the fathers of these heroines are such Henry V. Edmund and Clyde Fitch. Besides the promise of interesting work that lies in those seven names there is the further chance of satisfaction in the fact that three of the roles have been written by distinguished dramatists who are well known to the American public.

The exceptional heroine not conceived, born and bred for the personator is Rebecca West, but, as she is begot by Ibsen and embodied by Mrs. Fitch, the difference between the actress and the actual woman are affective? "Roamerholm" has been regarded as the least attractive of the plays that have been produced, and is going into prose. It takes up the opposition in a Norwegian town between conservatism and radicalism, and discusses it with the same subtlety and delicacy as the other two, for a sensitive reader, and an Nazimova as a Siren.

The supple grace of Mrs. Nazimova has reptilian poison as well as exerts it to his death. Brandon Tyne, who is so lovely in his ignorant innocence of a woman's soul, is gradually won the wicked woman's audacity and is so completely as she hates his wife. The upshot is a tragedy, and the play is so interesting what the woman is. "The Comedians" wild in its imitation of Ibsen, and the author's own style, and whether to admire its author's strength of scheme or deplore his feebleness of execution, is a matter of opinion. The criticism is unfavorable, mostly, yet it is a pity that the work had been given as a posthumous work. If the woman, it wouldn't have been accepted as a posthumous work, and the work of its author, as both genuine and worthy.

It was an odd chance that, on the same night, Mrs. Naughton and Mrs. H. H. H. should come forth as women who live devotedly to their homes with evil purposes, and as women who have been converted from the power of love, and bring on tragedies of their own making. The first of the two, their best New York support (like from people of wealth and refinement, too. The second, Mrs. H. H. H., is a woman of them, but they are appreciated highly by the more cultured sections of society. Who is to be the "woman of the hour" in the "merchandise" in opposition I can't explain. The first of the two, Mrs. H. H. H., is a woman and a drawing of carls in many cases to decide admirers of both which to support. The second, Mrs. H. H. H., is a woman and a drawing of carls in many cases to decide admirers of both which to support. The two theaters were crowded very handsomely.

A Pair of Beauties.

townman money's rich of "Rometomomom." Mrs. Elsie's Rebecca West is a beautiful girl of about 20, who, which is and is come commonly of illicit parentage. She is an aggressive Socialist, almost an anarchist, and to gain the possession of Rosmer's self as well as his home, for he is an heir to wealth and power, she is determined to go to him, and so Rebecca subtly and cunningly plots her way to the side. That has passed and gone before the play begins, and the action sets forth the story of her coming to Rosmer, because, caused by her love for Rosmer, she has become a Socialist, and in a final despair which drives her with him to London, she has been converted. The four men in this drama play out at heads only, but the woman takes the part of the head.

The pair of beautiful supporting, Ethel Barrymore and Maxine Elliott, set to work to make the play a success by utilizing their loveliness to the utmost. It is a coincidence that Clyde, Pitch and Maxine Elliott, who played the part of the fortune tellers who fascinate each other, were all in the same company. Pitch's scheme of setting forth the society-saint Ethel, the Gibson girl in the role of the fortune teller, is a good one. Her sister, telling fortunes for London and the world, is a very good thing. Fortunately, Ethel is introduced as a girl of culture and refinement, a congenial type of woman, coming with her resources, inborn power of lure; but she utilizes her power to the utmost in her scheme of making a sorceress. She enters her part with a grace and a beauty and is so mannered modestly not only in wearing the gown and the manner of carrying it, but in her manner of speaking.

A Moral Murderer.

During three acts she is a listener at most of the men's colloquies, seldom saying a word, but with the exception of the impression that she is paramount in the household. She calls herself an "enchanter," and her words, which are full of the use of endearing words, causally to Ranner, as a wedded wife might, yet she is not married, and she is the only one of the couple's neighbors, can guess but can't read the mind of the lover. In the first act she does not love him, but the fact comes out tardily in the third act, misbehavior in that way. Mrs. Pike surrenders to him, and in the fourth act she has no outbreak of feeling, taking up with half an hour of the play's end, when Ranner, after a long and bitter struggle, over the aspersions of their enemies. She confesses, although confessing that she has loved him, and she has never loved another, she never antagonizes him and the audience.

don blouse politely before putting on the appearance of a quite moral, yet seemingly sordid social outcast.

Maxine's beauty is so rich that she is capitalized by the material world. She can't be persuaded to earn a living, but to get away from the tedium of extreme idleness.

Maxine is attracted to the young men who think they are witchy by her beauty alone and men who know very well that she is a fortune teller. She is attracted to the first man to marry them; and she is no hauser or men, as how could she be with lips of red, eyes of blue, and hair of black. She has a gentle soul; but the right man to bring on a convulsion of her nature hasn't come. She is a fortune teller, a seer, and a dreamer, and she can stand it no longer. She must get away from the conventionalities of the town, and create a new way in the freedom of the country.

[illegible]

But Maxine brings Priarly to her feet as though lightning from her eyes struck him down. He isn't senseless in the least. He knows that she loves him though he may be in another, for he instantly is an eloquent warrior. She knows how to love him is not only a gift, but a choice, too. He has a sense of moral sense, but he doesn't care a damn—that is his own word for it—who or what she is. "You are the first man to ever kiss me," she says, after permitting him to do it ten minutes after their meeting. "And if I like him," she says.

Wedlock is needed by Maxine and Priarly as urgently as by Juliet and Romeo. They are both young and the old folks never they have agreed to marry the next morning. Thus does "Under the Greenwood Tree" present the most romantic of marriages. It is a romance, and it is a comedy.

in modern fiction, and not all who witness it are so enthralled by Maxine's story of romanticism done up with its brooding time and passion. "Lovely," said the woman.

Maxine Elliott is her own manager, now; and I mention that so as to fix her in your mind. She is a very busy woman. She had her press agent tell the newspapers that the type of van would be used in the picture, so that when he would be seen in a bathing garb that would astonish; and here fore we were told that the picture was to be a chapsie came down from London to visit her, and she made him put on a pair of slippers, and she took off her shoes or stockings, some of us said to ourselves that she, useful woman, meant to show the picture to the public in a decorative by contrast with the coarser ones of a man.

She told me that she was glad

SELWYN AS AN INDIAN.

MENTION of Robert Edson recalls to mind Edgar Selwyn, the former's successor in the title role of "Strongheart." He relates this incident:

In the office of Allentown's leading hotel he had settled himself comfortably in a large, comfortable chair, when a performance, when a stranger accosted him.

"I suppose you are with this here 'Strongheart' troupe?" said the stranger.

"Yes," replied Selwyn, drowsily.

"Well," said the other, "this person," continued the other, "and I tell you I was mighty interested in that Indian, Strongheart, there?" "Yes, and I am," I knew that Indian schools turned out good foot-ball players," "I don't know we could educate you to act."

"CHECKERS" will play its third engagement in Louisville at Macaulay's on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday. The play of a story American life, told in crisp, clean-cut dialogue, with cleverly devised situations, and one scene with a thrill in it that leaves the audience a little breathless. The hero is named Campbell, but nobody ever calls him Campbell. "Chesed" is the name the agent he appears in the role of a Hot Springs Hotel, in the first act, till the last curtain leaves him with his sweetheart in his arms. He is a "gentleman sport" spending his money as he chooses till he meets "Peri" Barlow and discovers her beg Arthur Kendall, the dispossessed son of a rich Clarksville merchant, to come home. Incidental, he finds out how a sport looks to a girl like "Peri," and turns his back on squarely on his old life. The second act finds him in Clarksville, clerking in the Kendall store, and adoring "Peri" without hope. In a lot of the faintest and quietest love scenes ever played he finds out that "Peri" cares for him, and her father sends him away, refusing consent to his marriage with her. Peri then earns in a year what Checkers does to get the money and what he does with the money when he gets it makes up two more acts of undulating interest.

Hans Robert plays Checkers this year, and Dave Braham, Push Miller, Lydia Dickson still has the role of Cynthia, the lovely, compelling, vibrant girl, and Jack Armistead, the Sado, the mad, the ugly, clump, lurching, Kay, Kay, Maple roughton, Howard Smith, George Merritt, Joshua Nathan are all names familiar to all who saw "Checkers" last year. Only three names in the cast are new. The new ones are two who have played this year by Stephanie Longfellow, a grand niece of the poet.

AMELIA BINGHAM, in "A Modern Lady Godiva," will be seen at Macaulay's the last half of the week. The story concerns a beautiful woman who sacrifices her natural delicacy so far as to pose for a painting of Lady Godiva, of Coventry, in order to secure money to save the life of an invalid husband; she is, of course, being in ignorance that she has done so. When he beseigned his health he sees the picture, finding it in the hands of his avowed enemy. The author, who has written the classic Trick F. Schrader and Leoyd M. Bingham, the authors have evolved a play from it. The cast includes the stars, the cast: Charles H. Stevenson, Frank Hollis, Jr., Robert Edwards, James Gordon, Adelle Wesley and others of equal prominence.

THE Mary Anderson promises a vaudeville bill of genuine merit this week. Trixie Friganza, the popular comedienne who has been in the city since the "Orchid" when a motor-car accident in Chicago forced her to retire from the stage for several months, will be the head attraction. She is joined by Helen in Louisville as the widow in "The Prince of Pilsen," with Jess Dandy.

THE second edition of the musical comedy, "Me, Him and I" is announced for this week at the Masonic Theater. The comedy was seen here last season, but since that time it has been reconstructed and equipped with new scenery and costumes. The new production is the assured of Hattie, Sammie and

The starring vehicle this season for Wrothe, Watson and Arlington.

The scenes of the comedy are laid in the West. The action begins in Seattle, and from there the episode is transferred to a spot about 100 miles farther north for the Klondike. The trip is fast and shows the interior of the Frozen North.

The principal comedians impersonate the remains of a "busted" Indian medicine show. They arrive in Seattle on a steamship, and are met by a wealthy Westerner who is about to embark with a party for the Klondike, where he is going to strike it rich. The party are an Englishman, who is traveling incognito; a lunch counter girl, in love with Charlie Klondike; the lady of the house, who is a fortune teller; and an emotional actress named Vera Heartburn.

Special attention has been paid to the role of the club in the life of the community, and to the many ways in which it has been used to promote social and cultural activities. One of the ensemble numbers is "Football Girls," where the members of the club appear in football attire during the rendition of the song.

A JUGGLER with an international reputation comes to the Hopkins this week as the head of a promising new comedy troupe. The 35-year-old Canadian and comes here direct. A short tour of America was made by him earlier in the season, previous contracts for performances at home preventing a lengthening of his stay in this country at the time.

Comedy is expected to hold sway throughout the entire run of the troupe's programme. Press Eldridge, the "commander-in-chief of the army of comedians," will be the first to appear.

COMFORT IN LONDON THEATERS.

A WRITER in the Theater Magazine for January, comparing the theaters of London with American playhouses, finds the serene deliberation and good temper of the Englishman in marked contrast to the

The Englishman's dialect of noise and fuss is everywhere manifest in London, but nowhere more so than at the theatre. The Englishman is everywhere, even in a minor key. There is no unseasonably hush. From the moment that the tall commissionaire—an ex-soldier, with perhaps two or three service medals upon his chest—opens the door to the front door, you are in the hands of well-trained servants. It is as if you were an honored guest at a private house. Even the man in the box-office window, and the uniformed attendant seems glad to see you, in spite of the fact that brass buttons have a tendency to dry up the wellsprings of human kindness. The girls have different shades of brown hair, in different London theaters. In some the maids' frocks are of the prevailing tint of the interior of the house. They are all very nice-looking, and their eyes are blue, green, hazel, or brown in another. Of course the maid has a pink and white complexion; five out of six London girls have. THE POWER OF THE STAGE.

[Washington Herald.]

It is my sincere belief that the theater should be made a part of the school system. —Clark Twain.

We all may read till we go blind.
May con and cogitate;
Through rusty tomes make weary grind
Till scullies and slurs
And all the reading, all the thought,
One gathers from each
What we should find freely wrought

Like pictures on The Stage.
There Egypt's Queen doth calmly sail
Adown the sunny Nile,
And the white sails with gleaming mail
In Scottish Mary's smile.
Perchance some Inca rules a king
And a white cloud a comet
Old heroes of whom poets sing
All meet upon The Stage.
We walk with Hamlet in the grove,
We range the world of olden days,
The whole wide world is ours to rove,
The lofty heights attain.
The noblest of the noblest past
From History's vibrant page
Fixed are in mind secure and fast
By mind upon The Stage.
Tis Kindergarten for mankind,
A school for old and young;
Where honor, duty, glory find
A universal tongue.
Tis education's surest aid,
Tis ignorance assuage,
Some day the world's heart is awayed have certain characteristic ways of dressing which, if properly understood, usually prove to be the keynotes of their respective personalities. An actress of artistic temperament is one who is conscious that to design gowns and wear them as would their counterparts in real life, is not the secret of character impersonation. Consequently, in choosing toilettes, an actress should select those that will most effectively accentuate the psychology of the character she is to play. At the same time they will emphasize the salient and distinctive personality of the woman she intends to portray. While planning one day with Lizzie Hudson Collier, she reminiscenced to the writer that Madame Januscheck found it impossible character. Nancy Oedfeld, unless she wore, as she always did in playing the part, coarse, unbleached muslin undergarments. This appreciation of the psychology of clothes, which so many women will acknowledge, certain of their gowns will plunge them into appropriate moods, how true it must be, that the correct toilette will put a temperamental actress in the mood to play the part with which the role she is interpreting. For instance, Katherine Grey in "Business Is Business" played the daughter of an extreme Ugo of parvenu but in Redfern's latest work, wearing toilettes, but in the clothes of a sincere, unassuming type of a thoughtful girl, who has tasted the bitterness of poverty, and upon whose mind her father's method of acquiring his wealth had preyed. The very garments she wore, the gown she wore, were simple in make, and plain in color, and the absence of elaborate trimming and intricate design, which would have suggested an expensive dressmaker, proclaimed at once to the audience a phase of the hidden psychology of the character, which Miss Grey so subtly portrayed.

Why are Mme. Rejane and Olga Netherland, the leading exponents of dress of the modern stage? Simply because they intuitively understand the psychology of clothes and design their gowns accordingly. As famous dressmakers first study the precise type of a customer before design-that a gown for her, so also an actress who is dressing to play, assign a gown that will fit in with her characterization physically, but will also psychologically clothe her interpretation of the role she is creating out of her soul and imagination. No dressmaker, however skillful, can do this. It is the actress's part when only the actress herself understands its subtle personality as she intends enacting it on the stage.

Why is it we winceless smile in polite derision at the mustached villain who is so sure of himself, who is so sure of his powers when he intends murdering the heroine, yet weep sympathetically with the heroine, who returns from London, with or without the "chi-i-i-d" and brows forgiven, to find her lover, who has been the victim of suffocation in a back or brown print the dress is it because we fashion the figure that the tyranny of her taste?"

In "A Modern Madelon" Amelia Bling, a young woman of good studies, of a poor family, living in the rear of a fourth-class house, which she worked as a dressmaker, when her mother died, took to support a tipsy, debauched, and dissipated man, who, in the end, drove her into this curious menage. She first succumbed to the blandishments of the villain, because forthwith she was able to get rid of her mother's brown crinens dress. Poor girls are handy with their needles, sometimes, but they are not so handy with their brains. Amelia, ready-to-ward, and it is only a poor amount of dressmaking, makes a princeling of a fellow, so that men will love her twice and that particular crinens.

For the sake of argument one might even concede that the girl, in the way of dress, is not a tyrant. But the tyrant of dress would never have suspected her of the amount that she would need. The amount that her mother-in-law, Mrs. Mardian paid her for her share for that year was $100,000. She had a family of four and a pet bulldog in St. Louis for at least a month. Nevertheless, she had to raise $100,000 in a matter of a millionaire's rise to support the family when by concentrating on made-to-order clothing she had been able to live in luxury, to say nothing of saving her reputation. At that, "stayed" was the word. She had never been out of the worst department at thirty per cent and girls who had been out of the city in New York and with a family depending on them.

The all-star cast revival of "The Two Orphans," Grace George indulged in about as many as she could. Her first entrance as has ever been witnessed on the stage outside the realm of the "The Two Orphans" was in St. Louis, poor Louise, who had just arrived from the country. Her costume, a simple dress, was the same as the one that she had worn when she was a girl, and it could not be seen where Louise After everybody had marched down the aisle to the front of the church, the choir sang "Huddler Than a Cherry, and Beehive's," "Adeide" and Schuzer's "Wanderer." It was a very fine performance, and the big house like an echo. After several Schumann Poet's Love songs, the choir sang "The German's Tune," wherein Harold Smith's accompaniment carried lightly the singing. The choir then sang "The German's Tune" again, and the choir then had for recall the "Trum Drum Die Dammung."

Greek school, in memoriam, gave the choruses most noted as "A Swan" and "The Greek Song." The choir then echoed in "Ich Liebe Dich" and the Greek

A DOCKSTADER STORY.

THERE are probably few men in the United States who have so wide and extensive a personal acquaintance as Lew Dockstader. His prominence as a performer for many years, his constant traveling around the country, will readily account for this, and for the fact that his genial personality and fund of good stories make him a most desirable and companionable acquaintance at all times.

The next morning after his arrival he had occasion to go to the office. He had had occasion to make some copies of a new sketch he was working on. Imagine his surprise when he found that the man who had been his choice to be the drummer acquaintance was the drummer, nearly as much as he was by name, who was waiting him fa-

HERRICK A TAFT LEADER.

Selection Said To Be Favorable to His Senatorial Candidacy.

Cleveland, Jan. 4.—(Special.)—Col. Myron T. Herrick, defeated three years ago for re-election to the governorship of Ohio by bolting Republicans, blame for whose desertion of the head of the ticket has been placed on an Secretary of War Taft's speech in Akron, in the gubernatorial campaign, denouncing George B. Hoar, co-st with Purdie in that campaign. The Cleveland Herald asserted by the opposition to Herrick to be commander of the State House, that Herrick's words have been recovered much of the ground lost in that campaign, which put John M. Pattison, Democrat, in the Governor's chair, and ousted displaced Congressman Theodore E. Burton as recognized head of the Taft forces in Cuyahoga, where one of the bitterest battles of the pre-convention campaign between adherents of Secretary Taft and Senator Foraker is to be fought.

This was the word that was passed to local followers of Secretary Taft to-day. It was thought Congressman Burton would lead the fight. The excuse is offered that Mr. Burton is too busy in Washington to help in Ohio. But Col. Herrick is rated an ardent man and on one point at least is supposed to be Burton—each wants to succeed Senator Foraker in the Senate.

Cleveland politicians see in the selection of Herrick as campaign chief in Cuyahoga the Taft management's disfavoring of Burton's aid and by the same token the picking of Herrick as the Taft senatorial candidate. Col. Herrick has been leading a revolt against Congressman Burton's control of the Cuyahoga machine, to such good
